PETERSBURG.

PETERSBURG, May 29.—The Cockade City has been redeemed from thralldom. The entire Conservative ticket for municipal officers was elected by 450 majority, and they have carried four out of six of the wards for Council.

The election was the quietest held for many years.

RICHMOND.

RICHMOND, May 30.—At five o'clock this morning the returns had been received from all the precincts except one in Clay Ward, and the result shows the election of Kelley for Mayor, his vote being 5,217, while Stark, Independent, received 4,565. Cook, Conservative, for Attorney, received 5,213 votes, and Huddle, Independent, 4,759.

The remainder of the regularly nominated Conservative ticket, where there was opposition, is elected by about the same majority as that received by the Mayor—upwards of 600.

For the City Council the Conservatives elected their entire ticket with one or two exceptions.

MANCHESTER.

RICHMOND, May 29.—In Manchester, opposite this city, the entire Conservative ticket was elected, except for clerk of the Hustings Court. Chiles, Conservative, for Mayor, received 672 votes, and Beatie, Radical, 386.

The Presbyterian Church.

St. Louis, May 28.—The most important event which has thus far taken place in the Presbyterian General Assembly was the reception this morning of an overture from the committee appointed at a recent conference of Presbyterians connected with the Old School Synod of Missouri. The overture related to the action of the General Assembly of the Old School, and which subsequently led to the division of the Synod of Missouri in 1866. It stated that they were instructed to enunciate distinctly and frankly the principles held by those whom they represented, and if, as they believed, the same principles were held by this General Assembly, there is nothing to prevent those more fraternal relations which they long to see securely and permanently established.

Dr. Crosby then offered a response as follows:

Whereas, Certain brethren belonging to the Old School Presbyterian Synod of Missouri have overruled this Assembly, stating their principles regarding plenary inspiration of the Scriptures, and the proper jurisdiction of church courts in things ecclesiastical only, and in these, according to the word of God, together with their firm adherence to our confession of faith, catechisms, forms of government, and Book of Discipline,

Resolved, That this Assembly cordially accept this overture as exhibiting the principles of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and consider all actions of the Church in the past, if any, which may have been done contrary to these principles, to be null and void.

The response was received with long continued applause.

Judge Drake obtained the floor, and moved the adoption of the report, and it was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Dr. Breckinridge, a committee was appointed to inquire into the expediency of appointing a delegation to meet the next General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church South in St. Louis next year, and to carry greetings and fraternal love.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—In the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church to-day a communication was received from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America relative to a meeting in Ecumenical Council of Churches holding to the Westminster standard to consider subjects of common interest to all, and especially to promote harmony of action in the mission fields at home and abroad, and on motion it was referred to a special committee.

St. Louis, May 28.—In the Cumberland Presbyterian Assembly yesterday almost the entire day was devoted to discussing the question of organic union with the Presbyterian Church. At a very late hour last night a vote was taken on discharging this committee. This action on the whole matter in this body, for the present at least.

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 28.—In the Southern Presbyterian Assembly the committee of twenty-four on correspondence with the Northern Assembly made three reports. The first report, made by Dr. Kirkpatrick, favors the appointment of a conference committee, with a sincere desire for friendly relations and fraternal correspondence, but not for organic union.

The second, by J. W. Hoyt, declines to appoint a committee, but recommends sending fraternal delegates at once.

The third, by Judge Fentress, declines the above propositions, and states that the obstacles set forth in the paper adopted by the Louisville Assembly have not been removed, and we cannot hold correspondence until the obstacles are taken out of the way by the Northern Assembly. The reports were placed on the docket.

MIXED SCHOOLS.—There seems to be a good deal of apprehension amongst the friends of education, without regard to party lines, that the mixed-school feature of the civil-rights bill will, if adopted, practically destroy the public school system in a large portion of the Union.

The Baptist Home Missionary Society, in its yesterday's session in this city, took up the question, and Rev. Dr. Jeter, of Virginia, while urging the necessity for prompt action being taken for the religious improvement of the colored people of the South, expressed the opinion that if that provision of the bill became a law the educational interests of the South would be totally ruined. Dr. Sears also gave it as his belief that the passage of the bill would destroy the free school system of the South, because the people would not endure taxation for the support of mixed schools, and many of the best workers in the cause of education in the South would resign their positions in despair of a successful crowning of their efforts, however strenuous. He had arrived at this fact from conversations with men of all parties in the South. While he did not deny that all men are equal before the law, and that in the abstract the passage of this bill might be right, yet it is not expedient. The relation of the General Government to the State governments is one of expediency, and it is expedient for the General Government to destroy an excellent free school system in the States? After further debate, the Society deemed the matter of so much importance that a special committee was appointed to take it into earnest consideration.—Wash. Star, 26th.

Henri Rochefort arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the Times"

Information has been received at the Department of State from the Netherlands Minister that his Government proposes to hold a second Congress in the month of April, 1875, at Djokjakarta, in the Island of Java, for the purpose of developing agriculture and its kindred sciences in the East Indies. It has been determined to hold at the same time an Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition, to which foreign nations are invited to send their productions. The Netherlands Minister expresses the hope of his Government that citizens of the United States, interested in the matter, will take part in the exhibition.

The women crusaders who were arrested in Pittsburg by order of the Mayor and fined, appealed to the Court of Common Pleas, and the case was brought before Judge Stone on a writ of certiorari. Yesterday he gave a decision, reversing the judgment of the acting Mayor and ordered the fines to be refunded. A Pittsburg dispatch says that the ladies are jubilant over their victory. Last night they held a meeting to decide upon their future plan of action.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the birthday of the late Prof. Agassiz. His grave was decorated with flowers by the teachers and pupils of the Boston schools. Contributions to the Agassiz memorial fund were made by the pupils of public and private schools in various parts of the country. It is supposed that the aggregate of the donations from school children and their teachers will reach $2,500. No pupil was permitted to give more than five cents.

At the Convention of Pig Iron Manufacturers in Philadelphia yesterday, a series of resolutions was passed appealing to Congress for such legislative assistance as will aid in relieving the fire now quenched and giving employment to the unemployed workmen. They recommend the stopping of all operations until such time as an increased demand will justify a change of policy.

The State Engineer of Louisiana writes that three million cubic yards of levee must be built to save the State from an overflow next year, and that the State cannot pay for the construction of more than one-third. He suggests that an appeal be made for national aid.

The three County Commissioners of Barnwell, South Carolina, convicted of corruption, have been sentenced respectively to ten years, to nine years, and to thirteen months in the penitentiary.

The Washington correspondents still maintain that Secretary Richardson is about to retire from the Cabinet, and that B. H. Brewster will succeed him in the Treasury Department.

The case of Wm. E. Underzook, convicted at West Chester of the murder of Winfield Scott Goss, was taken up by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania yesterday.

The Arkansas Legislature adjourned yesterday at noon, to meet December 7th.

Congress.

In the Senate, yesterday, a number of private bills were passed. The resolution offered by Mr. Hamilton, admitting Mr. Sykes as Senator from Alabama, was rejected, so Mr. Spencer retained his seat. The Senate took up a good deal of time in discussing woman suffrage in connection with a bill for the organization of the Territory of Pembina. An amendment offered by Mr. Sargent, which provided that women over twenty-one years of age should vote in the new Territory, received 19 votes in its favor to 29 against. The bill was finally lost. The Committee on Privileges and Elections submitted a report in reference to the mode of election of the President and Vice President of the United States. The committee propose an amendment to the constitution electing those officers by a direct vote of the people in a manner prescribed.

In the House of Representatives the substitute for the Senate amendment to the Currency bill was lost by a vote of 112 yeas to 117 nays, and the Senate substitute was also rejected. A motion was made and adopted for a committee of Conference to insist upon the original bill. Of Conference for the gradual reduction of the army was next taken up, and went over. The bill for the relief of the widow of Capt. Hall, the Army explorer, was reconsidered, amended, and passed. The bill now authorizes the purchase of Capt. Hall's paper at a cost of not over eighteen thousand dollars, and allows Mrs. Hall all the pay due her husband up to December, 1873. The evening session was devoted to the consideration of the tariff bill.

SUCH DIAMONDS!—Olive Logan writes from Paris to Wilkes' Spirit the following description of Hortense Schneider's diamonds. Schneider is a popular opera singer of Paris, is fat and forty, and was lifted from a milliner's shop in a provincial French town to the high position she now holds in the mimic world; "A newspaper man who enjoys the acquaintance of the diva, and speaks of calling on her at her dressing room between the acts, gives this morning an inventory of these jewels. The earrings are solitaires, are worth, without the pendants she sometimes wears, over sixteen thousand dollars; two bracelets studded with diamonds all round; four necklaces, on top of each other, the lowest one bearing a magnificent medallion set with enormous stones; a diamond coronet surmounted with trembling stars an aigrette, a velvet neck ribbon ornamented with diamond horse shoes all around; a splendid buckle with her monogram; H and S; diamond side-combs, and every one of her fingers loaded with gems of the purest water. Total value, even in the market, about two hundred thousand dollars. 'Where did she get them?' 'No more,' was the reply."

MARRIAGE LAW.—One of those singular cases growing out of the laxity of the marriage laws of New York has just been decided. The Scottish law simply requires, to establish a legal marriage, the natural consent of the parties openly given and followed by cohabitation. The law of New York goes one step further than this. There, a mere promise, given secretly to the woman, followed by cohabitation, even though the parties live subsequently together under an assumed name, if under that name the man has spoken of the woman to others as his wife, constitutes a valid marriage, no matter what taint may have been on the woman's reputation. In the Brinkley divorce case the Judge so interpreted the law, and the jury found for the plaintiff—the woman claiming to be Mrs. Brinkley—on all the issues. The defendant is a young man of a wealthy family in Tennessee; the plaintiff a widow when he met her, and, as it would seem from the evidence, something of an adventurer.—Balt. Gazette.

SUIT DECIDED.—For several days a trial has been pending in the Circuit Court of Appomattox county in chancery suit brought by the heirs-at-law of the late John H. Johnson, of Appomattox, against Hon. Thomas S. Boocock, for the purpose of annulling the will of the said Johnson, which gave the bulk of his estate to Mr. Boocock. An issue of fact was ordered to be tried before a jury to ascertain whether there was actual or constructive fraud in Mr. Boocock's connection with the will, and the jury found in his favor on yesterday. The case will be probably appealed. There was quite a brilliant array of counsel representing the respective sides.

[COMMUNICATED.]

People vs. Politicians.

I feel a genuine satisfaction in being able to assert that the forbearing people have at last become sensible of their danger; have raised the standard of revolt against politicians, caucuses, and idiom genus, and will bury the "irreconcilables," this fall, so deep, that the hand of the future resurrectionist can hardly hope to reach them. Pardon me for briefly alluding to the Convention, the remarkable Convention, held in Warrenton, Fauquier county, where the members, with solid indifference to the popular will, did not, for a single moment, hesitate to cast overboard such men as James V. Brooke and Zeph Turner, men of known ability, of experience, of broad National views. Indeed the action of this Convention was so strange, so unaccountable, that a doubt exists in the minds of many to this day, whether they did not really forget their object of meeting and proceed to select delegates capable and suitable to represent us in some State fair, or some other social gathering, instead of being engaged in the solemn and responsible position of naming men to represent Fauquier and Rappahannock in the councils of the State. By the by, Gov. Smith is the last man in this world who ought to complain of the position of Col. John S. Mosby. I was the supporter of Gov. Smith for a number of years, and know Col. Mosby in being an independent candidate for Congress is only following a bright example set by Gov. Smith himself. Gov. Smith represented this Congressional District for many years in Congress, and always ran in opposition to and in defiance of Conventions. Men who are in favor of Conventions, generally, have little merit of their own to stand upon, and wish to get help from somewhere sufficient to sustain them before the people. Now this is not the case with Col. Mosby, and he will run on his own record and on his own merit, a military record composed of brilliant military achievements, and of civic triumphs, of which any man in Christendom might well be proud. Now it is a patent fact, a notorious fact, that everybody who wants anything done gets Col. Mosby to go to Washington to get it done for them. It seems to me that as Col. Mosby does the work he should, at least be entitled to some of the honors and emoluments pertaining to a representative of the people in the Congress of the United States. I will not again refer to the many mistakes in judgment committed before the war by these same "irreconcilables," such as proclaiming cotton "King," &c., &c.; that England would have intervened in our favor to keep her pauper population down, maddened and driven to desperation by starvation if the manufacturers could not get our cotton. England's moral sentiment against slavery and her desire to see the cotton interests of America destroyed, was (I believed then and believe now) just what prevented "intervention" on the part of the English government. The English government has always kept in view the main chance, and as our cotton fails to reach the markets of the world, her East India possessions, producing cotton, must be increased in value to her. These war men of to-day, Gov. Smith, Gen. Hunt and others, I assert, are the same men who hurled the South into secession, who carried our people off in search of their rights in the territories, and lost all they had in the States, and there are now seeking, by keeping up discord and strife with the National government, to perpetuate the consequences of their own folly.

SENEX.
PARIS, FAUQUIER CO., VA., May 27, 1874.

THE CROP PROSPECT.—The prospect for a tobacco crop in this county is very poor, indeed. The cool weather of the past month has been favorable to the fly, which has been more destructive than for many years. Some of our farmers despair of planting at all. The failure of this important crop from drought last year was seriously felt in our county; and another such loss will be very deplorable.

The wheat crop will be an average one if none of its enemies attack it, and we may hope for a good corn crop, although the planting has been postponed on account of the weather several weeks beyond the usual time.—Marlboro' (Md.) Gazette.

THE FRUIT.—A good many cherries are left a few peaches and nearly all the apples. And so far as the fruit crop of this section is concerned the apples are worth all the others put together a million fold.—Gordonsville Gazette.

The Right Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars is now in session at Boston. Yesterday Bloomington, Illinois, was selected as the place for holding the next annual session.

The funeral of the late Hon. David B. Mellish took place at Auburn, Mass., yesterday morning.
