clarification of the program.)

By S. S. KERSTEIX Over 50 per cent of the estimated total costs of the Six-Year Improvement Program is now available or can be anticipated the Planning Commission said in its recently submitted report to the County Board.

A full discussion and review of the relationship of the presently proposed bond issues and the overall financing of the Six-Year Program was reported Saturday by the Commission.

Less than half of the proposed $133,581,300 total costs of the county five school six year programs would have to be financed through bond issues because of present available funds, anticipated utility revenues, and future annual budget funds with capital improvement appropriations remaining at the present budget levels. Of the County's $16,615,000 program, some $7,500,000 in funds are now on hand or will be available from minimum future annual revenue*. Approximately $9,100,000 remains to be obtained from future revenues, bonds and other sources. Of this amount, $900,000 is to be used for expansion of the County's water reservoir capacity and can be the source of revenue bonds to be paid for from utility revenues. The actual amount to be obtained is $8,200,000. Thus, the program calls for average yearly expense of less than $1,500,000. Increasing revenues would further reduce the total funds to be found. Max S. Wehrly, chairman of the Planning Commission said.

The November 6 bond issue referendum totals $4,087,000 which covers the first two years of the program. That amount averages $543,500 more than the $1,500,000 six-year average because of the emphasis on the immediate purchase of as much land as possible for all County needs. Passage of the bond issues would make other departmental budget funds available for carrying out the rest of the first two years of the program. Passage of the referendum would (Turn to Page 7. Truce Line Talks Hit Stalemate

United Nations bullets speak louder than words in Korea today. On the truce front, the UN made no gain. But on the fighting front, allied troops have punched out gains of almost one mile at both ends of the Korean battleline.

In the east, UN forces beat off a night attack by 800 Red troops and seized a key hill west of "Punchbowl" valley. In the west, the Eighth Army reports the biggest gains of the day....A 12-hundred yard drive against moderate resistance northwest of Yonchon.

UN troops beat off three powerful Communist attacks near Kumsong on the Central Front. During the fighting in this area, American soldiers charge the Communists deliberately fired on UN stretcher bearers and Korean refugees. As Sergeant James Cannon of San Francisco put it: "I've seen dirt in this war—but this is stooping to a new low." Communist and allied truce negotiators have done what a UN spokesman calls "teeter tottering" at Panmunjom over a cease fire line. The Communists proposed that allied troops give up their hard-won territory in the east and take two swampy Western peninsulas from the Reds in exchange. UN negotiators turned the proposal down cold and the UN spokesman told newsmen: "The teeter-totter teeters more than it tatters." He said the talks were completely "fruitless." But he added, that the negotiators would make another try at agreeing on a truce line tonight. The United States Army Chief of Staff- General Lawton Collins—says he's sure there will be an armistice in Korea—but not in the near future. And even if a truce is declared, Collins says allied troops will have to stay in Korea for "some time." The Chief of Staff made his remarks while visiting a South Korean airfield on his Far Eastern tour.

Arlington Voters To Decide 5 Bond Issues For Total Of $4,087,000

Arlington voters will decide five important bond issues at the election on November 6. Four of these pertain to the initial phase of the Six-Year Improvement Program and the other to the construction of three parking areas in Clarendon.

The total amount of the bond Issues will be $4,087,000 for the first two years of the Six-Year Program and $740,000 for the parking areas.

"These bonds will provide for a safer, a more convenient and a more prosperous Arlington," the County Board said Saturday as it released a leaflet describing each referendum.

The Six-Year Program recently proposed by the Planning Commission, the County Board said, now provides Arlington with a comprehensive and balanced plan for action. A considerable portion of

SUNSCRIBERS TALK

The Inquiring Reporter asked the following Dally Bun subscribers to speak their minds on subjects of their choosing.

Mrs. John Whalen—1900 North 15th Street, Arlington. Subject—Police. A good organized police force renders to the people of a community such as Arlington certain fundamental aids. Police do not render aid by putting the people on the defensive. In other areas, the police give the people the benefit of a warning.

Mrs. C. Balden—1331 South Rolfe Street Arlington. Subject—Speed Limit We need a slower speed limit on Oxford Street. The cars zoom by here at 50 and 60 miles an hour or however fast they want to travel. Surely, there should be a milder speed limit tot the safety of -our children, and all the people of this neighborhood.

Mrs. A. R. Chaney—130ß South Rolfe Street, Arlington. Subject—Favors Bond Issues. I am in favor of the bond issues. There are a lot of things needed In the County, but right in our neighborhood, we need a traffic light on Rolfe and Columbia Pike. It Is a dangerous situation for people to try to get across the Pike. Too. our children certainly deserve all the protection we can give so they can grow up healthy and strong, not crippled by some car because we don't provide safety methods.

Miss Josephine Pollard—1314 South Poe Street, Arlington. Subject—Bond Issues. I am in favor of the parking bond issue because that will build parking places at our shopping centers. We need those parking, areas, is seems to me. I am glad to see somebody getting up those parking places, making It more convenient for the people who shop.

Mr. James K. Jone»—1626 Sonlh 13th Street. Arlington. Subject—Parking Bond Issues. I am in favor of the parking bond issue and also the Six-Year Program bonds, especially for the needed sidewalks. We have no sidewalks in this whole neighborhood. The children have to go to and from school by walking In the streets. I think it's about time something is being done about It by the County.

Bulldozer Reported Stolen From Construction Project

Missing one orange-colored bulldozer. Edward Hardin, of Bailey's Crossroads, Va., has reported to police the disappearance of a bulldozer which he owns and is operating at a construction job at Lee Boulevard and Carlyn Springs Road, Arlington. The bulldozer disappeared between 12:30 and 4 p. m. Saturday. Police are bunting a red truck which was seen drjvnig through the project Saturday afternoon with the thought that the $9,000 machine might have been loaded on the truck and taken away.

tlie Six-Year Program will be financed out of annual County revenues and other funds available to the County. But certain major improvements, which will be used for many years to come, must be financed through bond issues. "Arlington hasn't merely grown —it has exploded," the County Board said. Since 1940, the population has grown two and one-half times. Shortages during the wai years and the swift growth prevented undertaking of major capital improvements. The four bond issues for general County improvements are the first major undertakings for general County service Improvement since Arlington took its great population spurt. No large program of capital improvements had been undertaken from 1950 to 1950. The bond Issues should lay the physi-

'Board Member For Manager"

Charge Made

There is a movement in Arlington to make a certain member af the County Board county manager, board member F. Freeland Chew charged at Saturday's County Board meeting.

Mr. Chew's statement was made during discussion of a motion by board member Daniel A. Dugan that County Manager A. T. Lundberg be given notice of his discharge as of January 1, 1952. Mr. Dugan was overruled, 4 to 1, as the other board members defended the county manager and the record of Public Safety Dldecor Carlisle Johnstone, both of whom had been under fire from Mr. Dugan. came after one by board member Robert W. Cox, who said he believed Mr. Lundberg should and would resign anyway if he doesn't •'see eyt to eye" with the board after January 1, when at least one new board member win take office.

Mr. Chew said he could name the board member who would become county manager under the new movement and could predict the new manager's choice for police chief, which office now is vacant. He hastened to state that he had no evidence that Mr. Dugan Is a part of the movement.

"This movement took root about two years ago In a portion of a well known Arlington organization," he said. "I know that a meeting was held two weeks ago." In overruling Mr. Dugan's motion to fire Mr. Lundberg, the board also gave the county manger a vote of confidence and a new contract for the year, 1952. Motion for this action was made by Alfred E. Frisbie and seconded by Mrs. Florence Cannon, board chairman.

Mock Air Drill Set December 1

RICHMOND (UP) State Civil Defense Co-ordinator J. H. Wyse has announced plans for a fullscale mock air raid December 1 to test ground observers, radar systems and anti-aircraft batteries along the East Coast. About 5,000 spotters will scan the skies over Virginia from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. They will transmit information on planes to two filter centers in the state at Richmond and Roanoke. The Eastern Air Defense Command at Newburgh, New York, will conduct the exercises. An area from Virginia to Connecticut will be covered.

cal basis for County improvements.

The bond issue referendum on which the voters will decide are: 1. Construction of storm sewers and acquisition of necessary land. $1,382,000 is needed to construct a minimum of 55 storm sewers in the next two years, thus correcting the most dangerous situations caused by erosion and flooding. 2. Construction and improvement of streets and highways and of sidewalks, curbs and gutters, and purchase of necessary land. $1,318,000 is needed in the next two years to build vital connecting sections of major county roads; to widen streets in new shopping developments; to provide sidewalks along major roads and streets in most critical areas, particularly along streets leading to schools and recreation areas.

Today's News In Brief

Maine's First Snow Storm Cheers Hunters PORTLAND, Me. (IP)—Maine's first snow storm of the season fouled communications and utilities service in Northern and Western sections during the night. But the snow provided good tracking conditions, which made deer hunters happy. A fall of six inches was reported at Houlton in Aroostock County.

St. Lawrence Seaway Seen As Election Issue WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Aiken (R) Vt., said today that the St. Lawrence Seaway issue may determine the outcome of the 1952 elections in three or four "close" states. Aiken made his declaration as proponents of the multi-billion dollar project began laying the groundwork for a big legislative drive when Congress returns in January.

Group Says Income Taxes Don't Belong In Index WASHINGTON (IP) —A House Subcommittee has come out against including federal income taxes as a cost of living item in the government's Consumer Price Index, as some labor unions have been urging. The group also rejected proposals from business representatives for elimination of all taxes from the index, saying it favors the existing practice of including excise and sales taxes.

GOP Leaders To Persuade Eisenhower For Declaration WASHINGTON (IP) —There are indications that Republican leaders plan to press General Eisenhower to announce his political intentions in the near future. Republican Senator James Duff of Pennsylvania and former Overseas Aid Administrator Paul Hoffman both plan to see Eisenhower soon. And both are expected to ask the General to speak out on 1952 politics no later than January.

Price Controls Foiled Runaway Inflation WASHINGTON (UP)—Price Chief DiSalle says price controls get the credit for preventing runaway inflation. He says the Controls Law has saved consumers between four and six billion dollars. And he adds that living costs have jumped only nine tenths of one percent since the control program went into effect last February 15th.

 Falcons, Bill explained, were prime factors in the hunting of fowl for the King's table in England's medieval times, comparable to hounds of the fox hunting sport of today. "Hawks are afforded no protection by the state, although they are a great aid to the farmer, since they feed on mice, rats, snakes, sparrows and other pests," Bill says.

Controversial "Core" To Be Discussed
Arlingtonians tonight can question and discuss the junior high school English-social studies course that has a county-wide controversy. The school administration has scheduled a meeting for 8 p.m. in the Stratfloyd Junior High School auditorium to explain and answer questions concerning the controversial teaching program, known as "core." Dr. Myron L. Koenig, a George Washington University dean, will be moderator for a question and answer period and an audience forum in which Arlington parents can express their views on the junior high school course. The "core" program will be explained by G. Hass, assistant superintendent of schools and director of instruction, and W. W. Rich, Arlington's junior high school education supervisor. School Superintendent -William A. Earley, Dr. Harold Wilson, associate principal at WashingtonLee High School; bliss Kathryn Cook, supervisor of guidance for Arlington schools, and Mrs. Dicie Woodson, the county's elementary school supervisor, will answer questions of members of the audience.

As plans for the meeting were being completed, James R. Miles, Sr., said that the Arlington Forum on Public Schools, an organization that has questioned legality of "core," will sponsor another meeting to discuss the program after the November election. He asserted that tonight's meeting "is sponsored by apologists for the 'core,' and . . . their primary purpose is to present the 'core' in its most favorable light."

Ryan Fails To End New York Dock Strike
NEW YORK (INS) Joseph P. Ryan failed today in his announced determination to 'end the wildcat dock strike which has halted New York shipping and hit other East Coast ports. Nor did Ryan, lifetime president of the AFL International Longshoreman's Association, make good his vow to send "loyal" unionists crashing through strike picket lines.

FIVE CENTS
Immediate UMT Law Advocated
Commission Sends Program To Congress
By DARRELL GARWOOD WASHINGTON (INS) A Congressional Commission urged Immediate enactment today of a multi-billion dollar compulsory military training program for 800,000 eighteen-year-old youths each year. The five man commission on Universal Military Service told Congress that its proposals: "Will provide this nation with a safeguard against the violent fluctuations which in the past characterized our military preparedness and obviated the conduct of a consistent foreign policy based on adequate strength."

The commission, Set up under the draft act of last June to develop a universal military training program, proposed:
1. Six months of continuous training for all able-bodied 18-year-olds, with half of them going into the Army.

2. Each trainee would also be subject to eight years in a National Guard or reserve unit.

3. The youths would be paid $30 a month, and would be entitled to disability and death benefits.

4. They would be Inducted under monthly quotas, but would be allowed to volunteer for training during the six-month period most suitable to their personal needs.

5. The trainees would be given their choice of services. If they could meet the qualifications and could get in under the quotas.

6. Deferments would be granted only in cases of extreme hardship or for short-term farm work.

„ The report disclosed that the Army, Navy and Air Force have drawn up UMT plans allocating trainees as follows:

Army, 50 per cent, Air Force, 22 per cent, and the Navy and Marine Corps, 28 per cent. Under the proposed 800,000-man program, the Army would get 400,000 trainees, the Air Force 180,000, the Navy 183,000, and the Marines 37,000 each year. A fundamental difference in the basic courses offered by the various services would be the length of the training period: Eight weeks in the Air Force, 12 weeks in the Navy and 17 weeks in the Army. The balance of the six months in each case would be allotted to specialized training. The cost of the program was placed at $4,187,983,800 the first year and $2,158,748,200 for each year thereafter.

The draft law provides that the UMT program would go into effect only upon an order from the President or a concurrent resolution by Congress. However, the Draft Act also provides that the program cannot be started until the drafting of youths between 18 and one-half and 19 years of age is either stopped or substantially reduced.

The commission indicated that it may be several years before the program can actually get underway even though it should be enacted immediately.

The commission stated that if the present situation and policies continue every available man now in the (manpower) pool, or who enters the pool during the next several years, will be required to serve on extended (two years) active duty with the Armed Forces.”

Petition Asks Guardian For Rev. Galloway

The Arlington Circuit Court has been asked to appoint a guardian to protect the proceeds from the sale of Rev. Harrison Galloway's home to the Hecht Company. P. H. Harris, associate counsel with Attorney Andrew W. Carroll for the aged Negro minister, said an appointment with Judge Walter T. McCarthy had been arranged for today. A petition asking appointment of a guardian was filed Saturday by the attorney for the Rev. Galloway.

The $18,879 proceeds are now in a Washington bank where the Rev. Galloway's former home, William Ik Houston, placed them after the sale. The attorneys want Louis Galloway, son of the minister, to be appointed to serve as the Rev. Galloway's guardian.
