Fairfax Streets. The cost when completed will be $50,000. The second major program according to the city manager calls for the sidewalk construction on West Broad Street, costing $16,000. Woodberry also stated that the curb, gutter and sidewalk improvements on Park Avenue and the curb and gutter project on North Spring Street would be started as soon as possible and completed before September 1, the date of the dedication of the new school at St. James Church. These two latter improvements are estimated to cost $5,000, including a contribution by the St. James Church of $1,000. In a June report to the city council Woodberry revealed that the department of public works, through the building and inspection office, showed the following: 6—one—family dwellings $80,000, one commercial building $16,100, seven additions $3,150, four alterations and repairs $775, one temporary stand $100; total $100,125. His report showed the following inspections: plumbing, 31; gas, 18. Other inspections included seven alterations and additions, six furnaces, six new services, two carnivals, five appliances, six changes of service, »nd o?ie sign. The report showed 114 parkingmeters in service. The Street dpartment reported $3,296.36 spent for labor, $1,064.90 for equipment, and $2,392.70 for material. According to the same report there were 51 water services installed, 11 new meters installed inside the city and 37 ouside. The number of gallons of water pumped during June was 2,335,000, which is a 29.4 percent increase over June of last year. The police department had 1,935 requests for information, 96 complaints, made 14 investigations, investigated 14 automobile accidents and 30 fires. They report 103 violations and gave the patrol car mileage as 6,355.

Grow To Be Tried At Fort Meade WASHINGTON W) — Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow will be tried on July 23 at Fort George G. Meade, Md., on charges of writing military secrets into a diary which a Soviet spy photographed. The Army yesterday announced the date for starting the. court martial before eight generals and said it will be closed to the public because much of the evidence will be of a classified nature.

E. German Reds Strike At Church BERLIN UPI—East Germany, following the lead of other Soviet satellites, appeared today to be embarked on a menacing drive against the church. The controlled Eastern press assailed what it called “Unhygienic and unworthy conditions” in vacation camps conducted by Protestant and Catholic officials. The attack on the camps, known throughout Germany for years as ideal children’s vacation spots, climaxed a week of threatening gestures. Fairfax Judge Sentences Michigan Man For Larceny Fred W. Burleson, 63, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was sentenced to 18 months in the Virginia State Peni-1 tentiary yesterday in Fairfax Cir-1 cult Court after a trial on a charge ! of housebreaking. He was convicted of breaking into the Mount Vernon Service Station on June 8 and taking $15 worth of merchandise. The case was heard by Judge Paul E. Brown after a jury trial had been waived by the defendant.

PERHAPS ON THE LAST LAP of a brilliant. Cinderella career, Evita Peron, wife of Argentina dictator Juan Peron, is reported in an extremely critical condition. Thes? photos are among the last to be made of her before she was confined to bed in the presidential palace in Buenos Aires. Although no public statement has been issued, she is believed to be suffering from cancer.— (International)

Eva Peron's Condition Grows Worse BUENOS AIRES UP)—“The condition of Eva Peron. critically ill wife of President Juan D. Peron appeared grave today. Official reports from the presidential press office said Mrs. Peron showed some improvement after a serious turn for the worse yesterday. The early morning bulletin said she was "resting quietly" at 3 a.m. (2 a.m. EST). But Argentine government officials appeared downcast and gloomy. Peron stuck close by the bedside of his wife. Groups of anxious Argentines formed outside the iron fence surrounding the presidential palace. The diagnosis of Mrs. Peron's illness has never been officially disclosed. She underwent a major operation last November after an examination by a New York cancer and tumor specialist, Dr. George Pack.

Same Old Tune 'Hot, Humid' Thru Monday The weatherman played the same old record over again today for sweltering Northern Virginians — "hot and humid" today, tomorrow and Monday, too. The thermometer will hover between 96 and 97 late this afternoon. A few thundershowers are in the making this evening but Won't do much to lower temperatures. Tonight's forecast is in the mid 70s— same kind of treatment we had last night and Thursday. Sunday's high will be 94 and some more thundershowers are due in the afternoon. The only comforting part of the forecast is a dim possibility of cooler air due here about Tuesday. The cold-front is in the making in the Hudson Bay Area and may move eastward, says the Airport weatherman. The heat wave covers the entire east coast from Maine to Florida and as far west as the Rockies.

Area Milk Price Goes Up To 25 Cents ! RICHMOND, (AP) — A half cent per quart increase in the ceiling price of fluid milk sold at retail and wholesale in the District of Columbia milk marketing area has been authorized late today by the Richmond Regional OPS office. This means top-grade homogenized vitamin D milk will cost 25 cents a quart. And home delivered milk will average about 24 cents a quart. The increase becomes effective when the new regulation is published in the Federal Register. OPS also authorized dairies in the area to boost their ceiling prices on cottage cheese by 1 cent per 12 - ounce package, to raise light cream prices by 2 cents per half - pint and to increase the price of heavy cream by 3 cents per half-pint. In the District of Columbia area are the city of Alexandria, the counties of Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William, and parts of Loudon, Fauquier and Stafford Counties.

Application for the price ceiling increase came from six dairies, representing 85 per cent of the milk distribution in the area. Among the applicants were Chestnut Farms — Chewy Chase Dairy, Embassy Dairy, Lucerne Milk Company, Richfield Dairy Corporation, Thompson's Dairy and Wakefield Model Farms Dairy. The increase granted on their petition applies, however, to all dairies in the area, OPS said. The Slifcsys said that the ceiling price hike was granted to offset a new labor contract, approved by the Wage Stabilization Board June 22 and effective June 27, giving dairy employees a 12 per cent wage increase. Also taken into consideration, OPS said, were higher costs of raw milk, packing cases, cans and containers.

Bill Allows States To Hold Income Tax WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman signed legislation yesterday under which states may withhold state income taxes from the pay of federal employees. Military pay is exempt.

Hope Held For FEPC Agreement Russell To Confer With Byrnes And Byrd On Issue By JOHN R. HENRY CHICAGO (INS)—High hope is held today by Georgia's Sen. Russell for a "sensible, sane compromise" on the civil rights issue which sputters like a dynamite fuse beneath the Democratic pre-convention sessions. Russell is scheduled to confer with Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina in an effort to keep Southern delegates in a mood to settle the controversial issue amicably. He also expects to see Sen. Byrd of Virginia. Tempers of the South's advance guard flared anew last night after

Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota, branded some foes of civil rights legislation as "modern day carpetbaggers." Russell, who claims virtually solid Dixie support, declined comment on the Humphrey demand for an all-out Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) platform plank. He said it was only natural to except an expression of "the extremist view," and later added: "I am confident the issue can be ironed out with a sane, sensible compromise."

Russell, meanwhile, interpreted a move to refuse seats to the antiadministration delegates from Mississippi and Texas as a plot to hamstring his candidacy. - When it was reported that candidates Averell Hariman and Sen. Kefauver had joined to oppose the delegations headed by Gov. Hugh White and Gov. Allen Shivers, Russell remarked: "I cannot believe they would resort to such tactics, but, if they have, it is clearly a 'Stop-Russell' movement."

Governor Byrnes arrived on the scene last night, too shaken by a stormy airplane flight to meet with Russell. Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge lashed out against Humphrey's civil rights proposal as did other Dixie spokesmen. Talmadge warned: "Adoption of such a plank would mean the Democrats wfl! lose the South." Alabama's Sen. Sparkman sided with Russell, however, in belief that no stick of dynamite is attached to the sputtering fuse of civil rights. Sparkman declared: "I am still convinced we can settle this tiling without a brawl. I can't tell you why right now, but I definitely believe we will reach a satisfactory compromise before the convention opens."

NEWSPAPERS SAY LEWIS INFLUENCED RUSSELL MINNEAPOLIS—The Minneapolis Star says that John L. Lewis is responsible for changing the views of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia regarding the Taft-Hartley Law. In a copyrighted story by Washington correspondent John Herling the paper said Friday that Russell's switch against the labor act came after he field two meetings with Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers Union. The Star said that nothing much happened at the first meeting. After that Sen. Lister Hill (D.Ala) conferred with Welly Hopkins, UMW general counsel, and Justin McCarthy, who handles the union's public relations. The newspaper's story continued: Hill, a good friend of Russell's but differing from him in "outspoken opposition to the Taft-Hartley Law," advised the two union men to lay their arguments against the law before Russell. When the second meeting was arranged, Lewis did most of the talking with Russell listening intently. The senator spoke only briefly, saying he hadn't really understood the vast complications of the labor act. Lewis was quoted as telling Russell: "This is not a question of whether you like John Lewis, Bill Green of the AFL or Phil Murray of the CIO. This involves the general peace and welfare in labor-management relations. It affects all relations in a democracy. Think it over." Reached at his home here and shown the above Associated Press dispatch Mr. Lewis said: "No comment."

Alexandrian Indicted On 31 Counts Of Accepting Bribes In Capacity As Commerce Licensing Officer

Profit Share Charge Denied By Magruder J. Maynard Magruder, Arlington real estate dealer and unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from Virginia's new Tenth District, filed an answer yesterday in Arlington Circuit Court in the suit lodged against him July 3 by another County realtor. Thomas E. Edwards claimed that Mr. Magruder had withheld 50 per cent profits in a three-house deal due him. Mr. Edwards maintained that, while acting as an agent' of the Arlington Housing Corporation of Columbus, Ohio, the defendant had agreed to buy three prefabricated houses from him, set them up and split the resale profits. Mr. Edwards further claimed that the two men, with another, had formed the E & M

Construction Corporation to negotiate the transactions. The statutory agent for the corporation said that Mr. Magruder was listed as the president and 1 Mr. Edwards, as the vice-president and general manager. Labelling the suit a political maneuver (it was filed before Mr. Magruder lost in the July 15 primary), Mr. Magruder denied all charges and maintained' that the suit was improperly filed because it did not list the address of the complainant. In his answer, the defendai^j staled: That the suit was barred by the Statute of Limitations; the E & M Construction Corporation was formed by Mr. Edwards and "one Richard Morris;" he had refused the use of his name as a third member of the corporation; he paid for the houses and their erection out of his own pocket and never had agreed to give Mr. Edwards any part of the profits, and that he never had sold the houses through Mr. Edwards' firm, but through his own. He maintained that about July 8, 1948, Mr. Edwards came to him with a plea to buy the houses because the complainant had only sold two of five houses required for him to keep his franchise w'ith the Ohio corporation. Mr. Magruder said he bought them and sold them only to help out the complainant. He further stated that Mr. Edwards never had helped him erect the houses, as the complainant claimed in the suit. Mr. Edwards charged that the defendant cleared $8,000 on the transaction. Mr. Magruder replied that it was none of Mr. Edwards' business whether he made a profit or not. He admitted making a profit but did not disclose the amount.

Local Troops On Way Home From Pickett CAMP PICKETT, Va., Ml — The same 1,400 trainees of the 80th Infantry Division left this huge Southside military post today after the "toughest, but most successful" two-week encampment in the division's history. Officers of the 80th agreed that many military kinks were ironed out and that the training period had come off smoothly. The 80th's members are from Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Traditionally, it is known as the Blue Ridge Division. Infantry units from Richmond, Norfolk, Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore and other Maryland towns tabbed this year's training as "rugged, but enjoyable." They underwent every phase of infantry training, including night problems, infiltration, machine gun and mortar tactic, camouflage and concealment. Artillerymen from Richmond, Bristol, Norton, Wytheville, Marion, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Tappahannock spent three days undergoing field problems.

Like Old Woman In The Shoe, State Delegates Wonder What To Do With So Many Problems

By The Associated Press

Virginia's delegates to the national Democratic convention found themselves today in somewhat the same position as the old woman in the shoe—they had so many problems they didn't know' w'hat to do. On the one hand, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia—until Wednesday evening the man voted most likely to succeed in easing their pains—rapidly was shifting more and more to the Truman line, a fact not likely to win him many friends and influence many votes among the Virginia delegation. And on the rear flank, there was trouble again from the anti-organi-zation wing of the party—notably Francis Pickens Miller, who asked the national Democratic Party to make the Old Dominion's delegates sign a pledge they'll back the party nominees in November. Miller's latest attack—just three days after his defeat by U. S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd in Tuesday's senatorial primary—was in the form of a telegram to Calvin W. Rawlings, national convention ere dentials committee chairman, and National Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney. He said: "Since Virginia's delegates have not yet been certified, and since they represent a political faction which has given evidence of being disloyal to the Democratic Party and of having allied itself with the Republican Party, I respectfully request that before certifying them the credentials committee require each delegate to take a pledge to support the nominees of the Democratic national convention in the forthcoming presidential election." Miller said the manual for the Democratic national convention provides that "the names of all delegates and alternates (be) certified to the national committee not less than 15 days prior to the opening of the convention." Virginia's 28-vote delegation was chosen in Roanoke Thursday, just four days ahead of Monday's convention start at Chicago. And Miller charged the state convention was held so late so (See Delegates, Page 2, Please)

I-1-Request ICC Hearings On Token Fares Arlington County has filed an answer TtHhe Interstate Commerce Wwiii'iisSion requesting that the ICC not grant a rehearing before the full commission of Arnold Bus Company's plea for discontinuing the use of token fares. The company's request previously was denied by Division 2 of the ICC. Reiterating earlier arguments, Atty. Malcomb Miller, who is representing the County in this case, stated that the "respondent has not attempted to show how or why token fares should be cancelled, and why all increases of revenue should be derived from (increased) traffic, except upon a theory of alleged revenue needs." In its petition for rehearing, the company stated that it needed to do away with cheap tokens and install uniform cash rates to compensate for new and increased services. The company estimated that its buses will travel about 429,000 additional miles this year. Mr. Miller chtfged that even while the original hearing was being conducted, the company reduced its services and has not yet increased it any legible amount. Touching on the fact that the owner of the business is leasing his own terminal property to the company at a tremendous profit, Mr. Miller stated: "Rather than the arms' length dealing expected in law and equity, the Arnold signed successive 'agreements' in their capacity as property owners with one hand, while the other hand waved a pay check before the eyes of an employe, who, with vision blurred, saw no impropriety in executing for the company a legal shield for the milking of the company by its sole owners." "The history of th# successive arbitrary increases rental for property owned by the Arnolds and leased to the company owned by the Arnolds is a revelation of shameless cupidity."

Thought Saucer Was Falling Moon FRONT ROYAL LY)—Edward G. Dovell, a watchman at the American Viscose Corp. plant here, I thought the moon was falling when : he looked out a fifth floor window j to make a weather observation. ! But it turned out to be nothing | but a "flying saucer." Dovell said the object resembled a brilliant, white grapefruit and was traveling at a tremendous rate of speed. He said it stayed in sight for about 10 seconds, during which time it apparently whizzed towards Front Royal from nearby Strasburg and then circled back.

Petition Seeks To Incorporate County As City Arlington voters could open the door for federal employes to hold local administrative offices if they vote "Yes" on incorporation of the County as a city at the polls Nov. 4. A petition requesting a referendum on this matter was filed Primary Day in Arlington Circuit Court by Mrs. Vera Dean, wife of Non-Partisan County Board Alan L. Dean. Unless some technicality disqualifies enough of the signatures to reduce their number under the required 200, Circuit Judge William D. Medley must accede by Aug. 1. Federal employes recently were banned from holding seats on the County Board by Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy, The final outcome is pending a decision on an appeal by the County to the State Supreme Court of Appeals. A verdict is expected from the State high court in September. Legal authorities maintain that this ban does not apply in Virginia cities. The law also will require voters to answer these questions: (1) Shall the City Council consist of five or seven members? There presently are five seats on the County Board. (2) Shall the city school board be appointed by the City Council or elected by the people? Arlington is the only Virginia county that has an elected school board. Another petition for referendum, signed by 204 voters, requesting that two questions concerning the County Manager and other officials be subject to the vote, was filed July 11 by Mrs. George C. Vietheer, president of the Arlington League of Women Voters. The two questions are: (1) Shall the County Manager be appointed for an indefinite term, subject to removal at any time by the County Board? (2) Shall the heads of the County departments be appointed by the County Manager? This referendum apparently stems from a dispute between County political factions last year over whether the County Manager has the power to appoint department heads. The Arlington Circuit Court ruled that the County Board should make the appointments. Also, many Non-Partisans are in favor of positive answer to question 1. The county Manager presently serves for one year and is eligible for additional consecutive terms. The questions will be answered either "For" or "Against." Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy will be required to call for a referendum by Aug. 1, barring any legal technicalities that would invalidate such action.

Wife Is Also Accused With Two Export Firms A Federal grand jury in Newport News yesterday returned a 31-count indictment against Henry G. Bennett, a Commerce Department licensing officer, and his wife Twila, of 3809 Milan Drive, Alexandria, charging them with accepting bribes to help two New York corporations gain export licenses. The firms also named as defendants are Martin E. Wolin Ltd. and the Chal Steel Corporation. The case was immediately transferred to the U. S. District Court in Alexandria. No trial date has been set yet. The government charges Bennett with accepting a total of $6,877.23 in bribes from the two corporations during November and December of 1951. The government claims the checks were made payable to Bennett's wife and cashed by her. Included in the sum was a $1,300 check for a down payment on a new automobile. According to the grand jury Indictment, Bennett issued some 28 export licenses to the two corporations in his capacity as licensing officer of the Office of International Trade. The indictment charges the defending corporations with conspiracy to influence Bennett's decision on their applications. The two corporations used the license* to export tin to Venezuela. The indictment said Bennett received the first check (for $100.) made payable to his wife on November 2, 1951. Eight more checks in increasing amounts were issued to him by the corporations within the next two months. In September, however, Bennett is said to have received a check for $1,373.36 made payable to the Spielman Chevrolet Corporation, of New York City. The government says he delivered the check to the company as the bulk of a payment on a new car. The suit specifically charges Bennett with "receipt of unlawful compensation" to take favorable action on the corporations' applications. The defending corporations are charged with bribery and depriving the government of the honest services of one of its employees.

Disclosure Of Hospital Aid Is Due Soon RICHMOND UPt—Major changes have been approved in the method of distributing Virginia's share of Federal hospital aid funds. But what the changes are won't be disclosed until next week. They were made here yesterday at a meeting of the Virginia Advisory Hospital Council's steering committee. Dr. Mack Shanhol': . State Health Commissioner, said he wanted to notify all council members before making the changes public. Congress has alloted Virginia $2,230,318 in Hill-Burton hospital funds for the 1952-53 fiscal year. Dr. Shanholtz said the council will meet in Richmond Aug. 4 to consider the steering chmmiltee's recommendations for dividing the funds among Virginia localities. On the same day, he said, a public hearing will be held to permit representatives of cities and counties to. confer with council members before final allocations are made. The purpose of yesterday's meeting was to work out a new formula for distributing the funds. For the past five years the funds have been distributed in Virginia under a formula devised in 1947. But last year it met with widespread criticism from localities who contended the formula contained provisions w'hich were discriminatory.Lift Ban On Sprinklers The ban in Arlington County on using sprinkler systems or garden hoses from 3 to 10 p.m. daily was rescinded yesterday.</PageTextHTML>
