

DANIEL REPORTS EARLY START DUE ON WPA'S SEWER PROJECT IN TOWN

Sufficient Labor Only Awaited to Launch Job

Bids Will Be Opened Monday
On Drilling of New Well
For Falls Church

At the regular meeting of the town council Monday, Mayor L. P. Daniel reported an early start is expected on the $24,000 WPA sewerage project to install lines along Broad, Cherry and adjoining streets. This work, which will reduce the amount of the bond to be issued for the WPA project, will start as soon as relief workers can be assembled. Following extended negotiations with WPA officials, the Mayor announced revised estimates put the cost of that project at $174,000.

As soon as the final plans for the WPA project have been approved by Works officials, it was decided a meeting would be held in Madison school to explain to citizens all details of the project.

Cost of the project to the town will be somewhat less than $110,000. Although the total WPA allocation is $174,000, approximately 30 per cent of this is an outright grant to the town, the remainder a loan.

Construction of the $24,000 WPA system, however, will decrease the cost of the project.

Two steps were also taken at the meeting to insure the town of an adequate water supply.

For drilling a ten-inch well on property donated by the Boulevard Subdivision, bids will be opened Monday, May 18, at 8 p. m. in the council room.

At the same time plans and cost estimates were authorized for installation of a water, meter and pump connecting water pipes of Arlington county and Falls Church. The new well was made necessary by the unexpectedly rapid addition of new services and the fear that present sources would not prove sufficient for the summer months.

Water line connections with Arlington county will safeguard the town in the event of an emergency. The action, taken at the request of Mayor Daniel, was recently approved by the county board.

Also at the Monday meeting, chairman of the roads committee, Benjamin F. Elliott, will submit to the council a study of street requirements and needs during and after excavation for sewer lines.

At that time the question of garbage collection is to be taken up.

The question of parking restrictions brought up by business men's representatives, was referred to a committee for study. Signs have already been ordered and will be placed in the restricted areas following completion of the survey.

Since then, experiments by the U. S. Bureau of Standards verified Dr. Castleman's work and at last week's meeting his paper, read by Robert T. Stewart, summarized and defined his work.

President Pays Visit to R. Walton Moore

The President motored out from the White House accompanied by Miss Marguerite Le Hand, a secretary and the usual retinue of Secret Service operatives.

So far as could be learned, the President's visit to Mr. Moore was purely social. When Mr. Roosevelt took his departure, Mr. Moore rode in the presidential automobile to the courthouse, pointing out various sites of interest.

News of the President's presence spread rapidly through the historic town, and many citizens gathered on the streets to watch his departure. No announcement was made in the daily press regarding the visit.

The total recordings for the first four months of 1936 is nearly a month ahead of the number for the same period last year, the clerk's records show.

The number of building permits issued in the office of Commissioner of the Revenue James U. Kincheloe is also rising, with a total value of $73,520 for April, a gain of $1,420 over March. The majority of new construction is taking place in the area adjacent to Arlington county and to Alexandria.

ISSUE WINS APPROVAL IN REFERENDUM BY 2 TO 1

Last-Minute Opposition Fails
To Stem Tide in Favor Of New County School

An apathetic Arlington County electorate Tuesday approved the proposed bond issue for $250,000 to finance the county's first junior high school. The vote was 1,657 for the bond issue and 727 against. The total vote cast, 2,384, was less than the number of names signed to petitions asking that the bond issue be held, and the number of negative votes was only about two-thirds the number signed to petitions circulated by labor interests in an effort to have local labor preference provisions written into the advertisements for bids on the school.

A low total vote had been forecast for the referendum, not more than half of the county's 8,000 qualified voters being expected to participate, but the resulting total was far under the lowest expected number.

The vote by precincts follows:

Precinct	For	Against
Rosslyn	76	71
Clarendon 2	197	55
Clarendon 1	165	65
Va. Highlands	123	71
Came	153	52
Lyon Park	171	46
E. Falls Church	94	24
Ballston	126	124
Cherrydale	161	67
Glencarlyn	38	41
Arlington	253	111

The last minute opposition to the bond issue was sponsored by the Arlington County Building Trades Club, which presented a petition to the School Board last week asking that prevailing Federal relief wages and preferential employment of local labor be specified in the advertisements for bids. The School Board rejected the petition, declaring that such requirements would boost the cost of construction alone above the $250,000 total, leaving nothing for the purchase of a site and equipment of the building. The Building Trades Club was supported by members of the Clarendon Citizens Association, who voted Monday night to oppose the bond issue because the question allegedly had not been presented in a manner to permit citizens to "vote intelligently" on the question.

The transfer of land, and partial payment of the tax bill in cash, was approved recently by a Federal Judge in Chicago. Leiter was noted for his attempt to corner the wheat market in 1897.
