FIVE CENTS

For several weeks now we have been hearing people talk about the end of the war being a sure thing for September. Bolder spirits among these prophets say it's all set for September 7. And a dozen times recently we have seen hopeful souls with pencil and paper adding up columns of figures, struggling with a little division, and then scratching their heads over the marvelous fact that all the columns of figures, after due addition and division, produce the same answer, which they interpret to be September 7, 1944, 2 o'clock.

That, so they say, is when the war figures out to end. The figures they use to arrive at this attractive answer are the dates of birth, ages, year of ascension to office, and length of time in office, for as many of the national government heads of the world as they choose to take. For instance, columns of these figures for Stalin, Churchill, Roosevelt, Hitler and Chiang Kai Shek, when added and divided, all come out to produce 972 as the final answer, which means the seventh day of the ninth month at 2 o'clock. Cease firing!

Illustration (just in case you haven't seen it):

Ch'll Hitler R'velt

Born	1874	1889	1882
Age	70	55	62
In office	4	11	11

Totals 3,888 3,888 3,888

Half of 3,888 gives 1944, and half of 1944 gives 972, or the ninth month, seventh day, etc. Cease firing!

Now, just to put the things on a level with us common people, let's take you and us:

Born	1908	1887
Years married	16	5
Year wed	1928	1939

Totals 3,888 3,888

Presto! Half of 3,888 gives us 1944. That's this year. And half of 1944 gives 972. Again, the mystic ninth month, seventh day, and 2 o'clock. We can't say whether it's to be 2 o'clock a. m. or p. m.

But we can say that liars do a lot of figuring, and so can hopeless optimists.

If you want to, you can add in your children, too, and by the appropriate division of your totals you'll still come out with proof that the war is going to end September 7 at 2 o'clock, 1944.

Don't worry if your roof leaked Wednesday. So did ours. Also the walls, and we suspect a little moisture also welled up through the floor. Yesterday we wanted to pick tomatoes, but it was too much trouble to move the rowboat into the garden. We decided to just shake the vines and let them float out.

13,000 Attend Center In 6 Months

The Arlington War Recreation Center reported this week, for the first six months of 1944, an attendance of over 13,000. This figure includes service men and women, teen-age youngsters, children and adults.

The programs set up by the Recreation Center have been well attended. Sewing classes for children and adults have been very popular. Dancing classes, including tap and ballet for children, have averaged over 100 a week. Both boys and girls are given a cordial invitation to come to the center any time during the day to play pool. The girls have been giving the boys some good competition in the art of playing pool. Dancing is always a popular type of recreation for adults and youngsters.

The ballroom and the pool room at the center are open to all Arlington County residents and service men and women every Wednesday evening from 8 until 12, midnight. They are urged to come and enjoy an evening of recreation with their neighbors.

As a sideline and a service to Uncle Sam's workers and service men and women, there is on hand at all times an experienced seamstress to help with clothing problems. "She will teach you how to mend your socks or cut a most intricate pattern. Have you ever thought you'd like to learn to paint? At the center every Tuesday at 2 o'clock there is plenty of instruction absolutely free," Miss Marion Timberlake, director, said this week.

"The Recreation Center is a popular spot these days and we believe it will be worth your time to join in the fun with us. We'll see to it that you have fun at 3150 Wilson Boulevard, and if you need advice on how to organize recreational programs in your church or perhaps in your own backyard, just call OXford 2228," Miss Timberlake added.

County Assured Of Goal In Fifth War Loan Drive

Incomplete Figures Put Arlington Within $300,000 Of Top; Women's Sales High

It appeared certain this week that Arlington had surpassed its goal of $1,900,000 in the Fifth War Loan Drive, on the basis of a report from the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank as of July 29 which credited the county with $1,600,000 in bond sales.

This report was only tentative, the Reserve Bank stressed, as a large volume of bonds remained to be tabulated.

Outstanding in the county's latest war loan campaign was the work of the women's organizations, which accounted for $452,000 in bonds, almost one-fourth of the Arlington quota, it was revealed this week by Mrs. Kenneth Pearson, county bond chairman for women.

The motion picture houses of the Neighborhood Theaters of Arlington listed sales of over $460,000, it was reported this week, and this figure includes somewhat more than $350,000 worth of bonds sold at the Buckingham Theater by members of the seven Federated Women's Clubs of Arlington. The Buckingham sales are also included in the grand total for bonds sold by all women's groups.

E. L. Usilton, war finance chairman in the county, and William E. Robey, campaign chairman, this week expressed their deep appreciation to all who worked to put Arlington over the top in the campaign. "Full credit is due the Arlington County women's organizations for enabling the county to

Neal Credits Teamwork and Training for Air Gains

The thorough training of American airmen and their closely timed team work are responsible for the gains they have made in Europe, according to T/Sgt. John A. Neal, Jr., 26, who is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neal, Sr., of 724 North Vermont Street, after completing 25 missions over Germany and German-occupied territory. The difference between the Nazi and U. S. air forces, Sgt. Neal says, is that all U. S. Army fliers and crews are well trained, while only some of the leaders in the German fighter groups are top men.

Sgt. Neal holds the Distinguished Flying Cross for his 25 missions and one Oak Leaf Cluster, which is an award for valor. This resulted from a raid over Hanover when the ball turret gunner had his arm torn off and Neal, a radio operator and gunner on the B-17 Flying Fortress, put on a tourniquet and saved the man's life. He has received two Presidential citations but could not disclose what they are for, and in addition has the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters.

A cab driver in Washington for three and a half years after graduating from McKinley High School, Sgt. Neal was drafted August 21, 1942, and trained at Scott Field, Ill., and Laredo, Tex. He went overseas in May, 1943, and from then until December, 1943, flew over Europe and on shuttle raids to Africa. He participated in raids on Trondheim, Marienburg, the first Regensburg raid, and Schweinfurt. From December until this month, when he returned to the States, he was a radio instructor in Northern Ireland. He will leave tomorrow for Miami and reassignment.

One of the greatest problems of the bomber crews, Sgt. Neal said, is to avoid frost bite. He suffers from this on three separate occasions and was hospitalized for 30 days in Africa because of it.

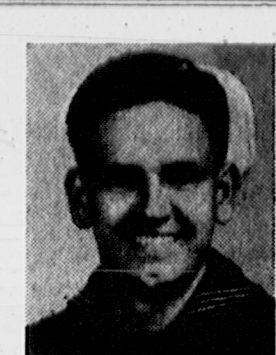

Neal was one of the 10 members of the noted "Brass Ball Boys." Donald Crosey, of Wellsburg, W. Va., was the leading aerial gunner of the European Theater at that time, with 12 planes to his credit and Levi H. Carter, of Brunswick, Ga., tall gunner, had eight planes to his credit. Neal shot down two fighters, a Messerschmitt-110 and a Focke-Wulf-190.

GOP Campaign Here Headed By Ames

Local Committee Plans To Raise Fund of $8,000

William P. Ames, local lumber dealer, is president of the Arlington Committee for the Dewey-Bricker Campaign and will also serve as chairman of the finance committee for the campaign. Other members of the finance committee are Oren R. Lewis, chairman of the Republican County Committee; Mrs. Marie Leap, president of the Republican Women's Council; Mrs. Franklin Pierce, Mrs. Christine Sramek and Fred R. Gosnell.

Mrs. Ames is undertaking the work, said a fund of $8,000 will be raised here for use in Arlington and the State during the Presidential campaign. His committee, he stated, is the only group authorized to solicit money in behalf of the Republican Party, and all solicitors will carry official credentials. All contributors, regardless of the amount given, will receive from Mr. Ames' office an official receipt and acknowledgment of donations.

"Elaborate plans," Mr. Ames said, "have been completed to carry Arlington and the State during the Dewey-Bricker campaign, and in order to carry these plans through, it will be necessary for everyone interested in the success of the Republican ticket to contribute to the campaign fund."

The Woman's Council will make a systematic canvass of the residential sections of the county, with the finance committee members personally soliciting the business houses and larger contributors. Mrs. Ames emphasized there will be only one solicitation for Republican funds locally and his committee will pro-rate all collections between the county and the Republican State organization.

Lloyd Nominated For Board Seat

Incumbent Wins Over Usilton and Beard; 2,082 Vote

Following one of the quietest primary campaigns in Arlington in many years, Leo Lloyd, incumbent, won the Democratic nomination Tuesday for the County Board. He polled 1,212 votes against E. L. Usilton's 754 and Eugene N. Beard's 116. The total vote cast was 2,082. The polls closed at 8:20 and returns were complete at 9:15.

Mr. Lloyd is completing his fifth year as a member of the board and will be opposed in the November General Election by L. C. MacPherson, Arlington builder, recently nominated by the Arlington County Republican Committee.

The only precinct which Mr. Usilton carried was his own, Arlington, which gave him 317 votes and Mr. Lloyd 146. He trailed Lloyd by 5 votes in Rosslyn, and in all other precincts was far behind the incumbent.

The vote by precincts follows:

Women Voters Back Carl Brown

The Organized Women Voters, at its July meeting, urged the appointment of Carl Brown to the Arlington Welfare Board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hugh J. McGrath. The Arlington County Board is expected to make the appointment at tomorrow's meeting, and the only other name mentioned as a possible appointee is Wilber B. Tubbs, former president of the Arlington Lions Club.

Mr. Brown, who is national rehabilitation officer for the American Legion, has been urged for appointment on two previous occasions by the Women Voters. The group feels he is particularly qualified since each community will soon be faced with the rehabilitation of returning service men.

Mrs. J. A. Brown, secretary of the Organized Women Voters, in a letter this week to Leo Lloyd, chairman of the board, also said, "Under the able, experienced guidance of the retiring member, Mr. McGrath, the other two members of the County Welfare Board have given us very fine service. However, they have served but one year. To now place upon the board an inexperienced person would greatly add to their work and weaken the board. To appoint a person of 20 years' nationwide experience will greatly strengthen the board, therefore, we urge you to appoint Carl C. Brown."

Mrs. E. E. Odom, president, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn and Mrs. H. P. Simpson were appointed to inspect the recently renovated County Jail. The association commended Sheriff Homer C. Bauserman for these improvements since he took office less than a year ago.

The child study committee, of which Mrs. Dunn is chairman, will visit the nursery schools recently set up here in three housing developments and supported by Federal funds. Mrs. Dunn has as her committee, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Magruder, Miss Marion Magruder, Mrs. J. Foster Hagan, Mrs. Dean Rose and Mrs. Odessa C. Bauserman for these improvements since he took office less than a year ago.

The Women Voters will be represented at the hearing before the Virginia School Study Commission August 17 in Manassas when the group will present a seven-point program. This will include the direct election of members of the school board, higher salaries for principals and teachers, attendance officers, trained guidance in the schools, psychologists, more adequate vocational training, and financial aid to needy students with high scholastic standings.

Army Engineers Help Rescue 170 Families From Area

U. S.-Built Jubal Early Homes Inundated; Typhoid Inoculations Are Given

The torrential rains Wednesday caused flood conditions at the Jubal Early Homes, located between South Fern and Eads Streets, just off South 23rd Street, and in some places the water rose to a depth of six feet. One hundred and seventy families, of the some 600 families living in the Government development, were evacuated. Many were taken into private homes, and some were fed by the Red Cross and housed in the Jefferson Fire Engine House and Calvary Methodist Church, where cots were set up.

County Manager Frank C. Hanrahan took personal supervision in the emergency and every available policeman and 50 firemen were on duty, as well as many air raid wardens and Civilian Defense workers. The county manager yesterday expressed appreciation to residents who so willingly offered their homes to young children and mothers, and to Fort Belvoir for the boats used to remove many of the residents. Brig. Gen. Gordon K. Young, commander, sent 18 soldiers and two officers, Maj. Kamat and Maj. F. D. Swan, to man the eight boats from the 11th 4th Engineers Combat Group.

When the Federal Government decided to build the low-cost housing development, Mr. Hanrahan said officials were warned of flood dangers. He estimated it would cost $100,000 to properly drain the land and said that at present, the Government is installing a make-shift drain which is costing about $15,000. The county, he pointed out, had no control over what the Government built.

Red Cross volunteers set up a feeding station in the administration building, which was not flooded, and first aid stations were manned there and at the nearby fire house. Dr. Ralph G. Beachley, health officer, was on the scene yesterday giving typhoid inoculations, and swimming in the high waters was forbidden.

Though the electricity was cut off as a safety measure, many persons chose to remain on the second floor of their homes and candles were provided in metal and glass containers. Police officers were on duty throughout the night.

Some other damage was done in various parts of the county where the water rose for short periods but nothing of a serious nature, county officials said.

Two Resignations In Health Office

Dr. Verlin E. Miles, assistant health officer, has submitted her resignation. Dr. Ralph G. Beachley, Arlington health officer, said yesterday and it will become effective September 1.

Although it was reported several days ago that Dr. Evelyn T. Livermore, who is in charge of the venereal disease program, has also resigned, Dr. Beachley had no comment to make on this. Dr. Livermore is on vacation and could not be reached.

Mrs. Robert G. Smallwood, health nurse, has also resigned effective August 19.

A report in a Washington paper that Miss Sarah Wormley, Negro health nurse, has resigned, was erroneous, Dr. Beachley said. Miss Wormley is remaining with the local Health Department.
