

HECTIC SESSION OF COUNTY BOARD

Byrd Law Fight Looms in Offing.

At the meeting of the County Board on Monday, Messrs. Robert May and Leon Arnold, bus line owners in the county, appeared in an effort to reach a practical solution to the placing of bus stop signs all over the county.

Mr. Arnold pointed out the evils of a uniform street intersection plan and suggested to have the Board and the Utilities Commission ride over the routes at any time, especially on rainy days.

The Arlington Community Library put in a petition to have water restored at their building which is now being used also for a health center.

A request from C. B. Munson to rezone the southwest corner of Marion avenue and Wilson boulevard was refused when a number of citizens complained and offered to bring a large delegation of citizens forward at any time.

The Arlington County Council of the P. T. A. through Mrs. O. B. Fitts, secretary, asked for an ordinance to restrict sale of beer, etc., near schools.

On suggestion of Mr. Smith the matter was referred to Mr. Douglas, Board Member Kelley meanwhile suggested that any such ordinance would be in violation of the present state laws. He was supported in this construction of the law by Mr. Douglas, who added, however, that the delegate from Arlington could secure special local legislation this winter which would satisfy the conditions desired by the P. T. A.

A resolution was passed authorizing the Board to proceed with the sewer bond issue.

The condition of Military road in Rosslyn was complained of. Mr. Smith stated that the Government was about to resurface. A motion was passed instructing the county manager to take the matter up with the War Department.

An order was entered to lay a sidewalk at Milton and Hunter avenues which will take care of drainage. Mr. Chapman is to pay half of cost.

Mr. Smith at this point inquired if the costs of streets was being kept itemized, and a motion was made to that effect hereafter, the county manager being authorized to employ two additional clerks if necessary.

The county manager reported on the recent meeting in Richmond where a wage scale on public works had been recommended.

On a motion by Kelley to instruct Mr. Braden to cut the road levy eight cents in the next budget, Messrs. Smith and Gosnell voted nay. Gosnell insisted that his reasons for objecting be written into the record. He accused the Board of attempting to usurp the powers of the county manager.

Mr. Kelley offered another lengthy motion which was a development of his previous motion. Mr. Douglas ruled that his motion had no legal status. Gosnell then moved to strike out the motion just passed, and on Mr. Douglas' advice it was done, with Mr. Kelley reversing his own vote after the others had voted thus.

The Byrd law fight loomed in the background when county officials present openly stated that the motion was "stage play." The words "Byrd law" and "it's nothing but a move to fool the people again" were heard round the sidelines.

The meeting became rather stormy when Gosnell claimed that the budget had been departed from with regard to the fire fund. Kelley claimed that the shifting of funds was due to the heavy demands of the working season. Mr. Fellows defended the budget, declaring that the old Board had left expenses at the very start of the present board's term of office.

Gosnell then claimed that the money was not in sight to cover transfer of funds, and at some length insisted that the fire department was being mistreated and that the present budget meant nothing.

For the most part of an hour the discussion went on without producing results, and the meeting adjourned for a brief luncheon period.

Things were quieter after lunch, some discussion being made and criticism offered of the former plan by which the Lee Boulevard Association was given five acres of land with which to barter for rights-of-way.

On a motion by Mr. Kelley highly commending the work of the county

RED CROSS MAKES 1500 ITS GOAL

Although officials in the County Red Cross drive hope to exceed the enrollment of last year, they have set 1500 as their goal. As the need of funds is even greater than last year it is hoped that residents in the county will enroll locally, no matter where they work or what demands are made.

$2,000 worth of clothing and food have been distributed in the county. More than 100 school children have been given clothing which amounted to over 400 garments of all kinds, and 325 yards of cloth have been given away.

manager and offering his reappointment, the vote was a little of a surprise. Two members, Mr. Smith and Mr. Gosnell, apparently wanted to change the form of government, and voted against Kelley. Chairman Fellows broke the tie and the Board adjourned after the most hectic meeting of its existence.

SMITH AIDS IN AIRPORT FIGHT

Northern Virginia Seeks Zeppelin Terminal.

Representative Howard W. Smith has stated that he will assist the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to secure the establishment of the proposed Zeppelin airport at Hybla Valley in Fairfax County.

The City of Richmond is prominently mentioned as a possible location, but the northern Virginia location is one of the three outstanding situations in the United States favorably regarded by the International Zeppelin Transport Corporation and the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation and its chances for selection are regarded as very good.

The establishment of this great international airport would mean employment of all kinds of labor in the building of the gigantic building and other necessary improvements. Consequently Representative Smith's action in asking the Department of Commerce to grant Alexandria a hearing is much appreciated.

SURVEYOR'S COMPASS TO BE EXHIBITED

The surveyor's compass and chain used in surveying Alexandria County in its early days will be one of the attractive exhibits at the antique show to be held on Wednesday and Thursday, November 8 and 9, from 1 to 9 p.m. in the Arlington Community Hall. AN APPEAL TO ARLINGTON PEOPLE

Editor, Commonwealth-Monitor,
Clarendon, Va.

Dear Sir:

It would seem altogether appropriate that the voters of Arlington County on November 7 cast their vote for Clarence R. Ahalt, for Attorney General, from a strictly "County Pride" standpoint, and that they disregard and forget party politics and fall in line and give him a big majority as a compliment to the man—an Arlington County man.

Mr. Ahalt has during his twenty years' residence in the County always taken an active part in the civic welfare of our County, and has contributed much of his time, effort and intelligence in behalf to the County and its orderly development. He is well qualified for the position and promises a fearless enforcement of the laws of the state.

A big majority in Arlington County for Mr. Ahalt would be a tribute to a local man who would appreciate it and would be a recognition justly deserved.

Very truly yours,

FRANK G. CAMPBELL.

ELECTION IS NEXT TUESDAY

Candidates Are All Men of Ability.

Next Tuesday the electorate of Virginia will go to the polls to select candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Attorney General, United States Senator and in this county, Delegate for the General Assembly.

The campaign has been a quiet one, with no special issues in the matter of governmental policies. The affairs of the State are in good condition in view of the national situation and the overwhelming Democratic complexion of the nation is such that the Republican prospects of carrying any important office are almost negligible.

It is recognized, however, that there are many local Republican strongholds where every effort will be made to minimize the Democratic majority, and loyal Democrats everywhere are being urged to turn out in force.

In primary elections Democrats differ in their estimate of the fitness of their respective candidates, but once the selection of party nominees is made, there is no longer any doubt among loyal Democrats as to the competence of their party nominees to fill the office, and to fill their jobs far more efficiently than the nominees of any other party.

The Democratic nominees for the respective offices are listed in the editorial column of this newspaper and we give them hearty endorsement.

SORORITY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Edwin Chapman of the Cherrydale Troop 85 reports that last Sunday morning eleven scouts in uniform attended the Methodist Church. They are now holding their meetings at the Methodist Church. On Saturday, Oct. 28, five girls cooked dinner at her home and passed the table setting and the second-class cooking tests. These girls included Norma Payne, Flora Kemp, Gladys Raah, Eleanor Simpson and Louise Bischoff.

He was a prominent member of several masonic organizations, of the Rotary Club of Washington, and of the Washington County Club.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary D. Weaver; by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Hudson and Mrs. Frances Maus, and by three sons, Karl, William and Brice Weaver. He left four brothers, John, George, Charles and David Weaver, and a sister, Mrs. Susan Merriam.

RECEPTION FOR MRS. KEESEE

The Francis Wallis and the Thomas Nelson Chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution of Arlington County, Va., gave a brilliant reception in honor of the State regent of Virginia, D. A. R., Mrs. Charles Blackwell Keesee, of Martinsville at the home of the regent of the Francis Wallis Chapter, Mrs. Thomas Smythe Wallis, "Ellenwood," Cherrydale, Thursday evening, October 26.

The spacious rooms were decorated with flags, dahlias, chrysanthemums, roses and fall flowers, and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Wallis who introduced the honor guests and members. Those receiving were: Mrs. Charles B. Keesee, State regent; Mrs. Lue R. Spencer, vice-president general N.S.D.A.R.; Mrs. Thomas S. Wallis and Mrs. Luther N. Dodd, regents of the two chapters, Dr. Frances Moon Butts, chairman of patriotic education; Mrs. Olaf Saugstad, Mrs. William A. Pierce, and Mrs. Arthur Holstead, vice-regents.

A charming program followed the reception, the opening feature being the minut dances by eight young girls in costume under the direction of Miss Edna Lee Unruh, members of the Governor Richard Bennett Society. Children of the American Revolution of Cherrydale, Mrs. Robert McFall, sang a group of lovely songs in the intervals of the addresses.

Mrs. Charles B. Keesee, the State regent, was then introduced and in her delightful manner made the address of the evening. She brought before the chapters the special work planned for the coming season, stressing the great need of the preservation of the old and crumbling records, of priceless value, in the court houses all over the state, which work she is especially sponsoring. This work has been started and several volumes in the oldest sections of the state have been restored. The work of the Student Loan Fund undertaken individually by several chapters, she congratulated, for the need of help for young people to complete their education was never so great as at present; Mrs. Russell William Magna's birthday celebration to liquidate the debt on Constitution Hall was urged and contributions for the purpose will be sent in. State and national projects were explained and the work of the chapters all over the state was most encouraging to her.

Mrs. Lue R. Spencer, vice-president general from Nebraska, who is an associate member of the Francis Wallis Chapter during her incumbency in office, spoke briefly of the need of restoring the census records of the Government, and this work is being brought to the attention of the Congress. She is chairman of genealogical research for the National Society, and these records are invaluable in proving the lineage of future members and of great historic value.

Dr. Frances Moon Butts, nationally and internationally known educators, and chairman of commercial education of the N.E.A., made a delightful address, her subject being patriotic education. She spoke of the need of combatting the tendency to reduce the education of young people to the eighth grades, and the need of higher education. She told of the seven girls at William and Mary her chapter has aided to complete their terms there, and of the great influence educationally of the radio. Her delightful reminiscences of her trip to Ireland this summer, when entertained by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and other incidents in connection with her work, were greatly enjoyed. She presided over the Geneva, Denver and Dublin conferences on her subject.

Refreshments were served in the sun parlor at a beautifully-appointed table, with Mrs. Charles W. Maffett at the coffee urn and Mrs. Charles V. Stiefel pouring tea. Between fifty and sixty members and guests were present.
