A Garage-Man Doesn't Guess HE USES A MEASURE

When you drive your car into a fueling station and order a quart or two of oil, the garage-man, to determine the amount of oil needed . . . takes his quart measure and fills it exactly before pouring it into your motor. He takes no chances with guesswork; he knows that waste is expensive and that each customer must get the exact amount of oil he pays for. He stakes his success and reputation for fair-dealing upon his . . . MEASURE!

When successful business concerns buy newspaper advertising to increase their sales, they stick to THEIR MEASURE, too; they have learned from experience that the ONLY accurate measure to be applied to the relative values of advertising is RESULTS; circulation figures only tell the number of possible prospects; rate per line only tells the cost per thousand of circulation; only the results from advertising can determine its real value. Records show that local and national advertisers are buying MORE Star advertising than any other in Washington and the reason for this preference is obvious . . . they have been buying and getting results!

★ Phone National 5000; your call will bring an Evening Star representative to help you with your advertising problems; he will show you HOW to advertise more effectively, more economically and . . . with GREATER results.
