Surprise for Godey

Tina Leser

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A SPORTS costume inspired by Godey of the ladies' book sounds almost impossible, for croquet was the hot contest in those days, and a sweeping skirt with a much detailed upper half was the proper costume.

Here we have, however, a velvet trimmed sports jacket of checked tweed cut on typical Godey time lines, coupled with gray menswear flannel slacks. The 1948 result is smart and practical, and it proves again that inspiration is where a clever girl like Tina Leser can find it.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SELF-RESTRAINT PAYS.
THERE are three situations in which self-restraint pays dividends if employed wisely toward the close of the auction. One of these is when you feel sure you can beat a contract your opponents have reached, but doubtful about some other declaration if a double by you scares them into it. A second comes when a double might locate your high cards or distribution and thus enable the declarer to beat you over the head with your own shillaleh through changing his playing plans. The third and most important perhaps is the greedy use of a redouble when you feel sure you can make your own contract, but through it cause the other fellow to take out into either a contract he can make or a profitable sacrifice.

HOPE COSBY AND BANKHEAD DAVIES WED

Baskets of white fall flowers and tapers in candelabras formed the altar decorations at St. Thomas Church in Washington on Saturday evening, November 15th, for the wedding of Miss Hope Massie Cosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walter Cosby of N. Irving St. and Mr. Bankhead Thornton Davies, son of Mrs. William Willis Davies, also of Arlington, and the late Mr. Davies. As the guests assembled, Mr. Loyal Aldrich played a program of pre-nuptial music. The Rev. H. C. Clement of Saint Thomas' Church, and the Rev. J. Hedley Williams of St. George's in Arlington, officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride, an attractive blond, made a lovely picture in gown of white satin fashioned with fitted bodice having deep lace yoke embroidered in seed pearls, long sleeves ending in points over the hands and full skirt with cathedral length train. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion was arranged from pearl tiars which had belonged to her great-grandmother, and she carried her mother's white prayer book overlaid with white rosebuds.

Miss Nellie Gray Gooch of Richmond, in gown of aqua taffeta designed with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves and full skirt, with matching bonnet trimmed with ostrich plumes, and carrying blending nosegays, was the maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Rafter of Culpeper and Mrs. William Thornton Davies. Both wore gowns of dusty rose taffeta of the same styling as the maid of honors, matching ostrich plumed bonnets and carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

Mr. William Thornton Davies was best man for his brother and the ushers were Messrs. John A. B. Davies, Wallace A. Johnson, Arthur B. Hanson and Walter William Cosby, Jr.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for three hundred guests was held at the D.A.R. Chapter House, 1732 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W. Washington. The mother of the bride received in dinner gown of emerald green with small feather hat of gray and corsage of yellow roses, and the bridegroom's mother in a dinner gown, fuchsia color with matching accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds. Low silver bowls of white flowers flanked with white candles in silver holders formed the decorations on the refreshment table, with the tiered wedding cake, cut by the bride and bridegroom holding place of honor.

Following the reception the new Mr. and Mrs. Davies left for a week's honeymoon in historical Williamsburg, the bride wearing semi-tailored suit of dark gray wool with pin stripe of wine color and wine color accessories. On their return they will make their home in Arlington, where they were both born and reared.

The bride attended Mary Washington College and is now associated with the National Art Gallery. Mr. Davies received his B.A. and LL.B. degrees from the College of William and Mary and is presently assistant to the commonwealth's attorney. He served for the duration of World War II, saw action in the Pacific Theater with the Field Artillery, and was discharged with the rank of Captain.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included parties from Richmond, Roanoke, Pittsburg, New York, Philadelphia, Radford, Baltimore, Fredericksburg, Culpeper, Manassas, Arlington, Lynchburg, Rich Creek and Lovington.

Miss Joanne Ayers, who is attending the School of Nursing at Philadelphia General Hospital, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Ayers, of N. Norwood Street.

Joanne's mother will have one of her poems, "Skyline Drive in Autumn," in the Fall edition of the Blue Moon Poetry Magazine.

Mrs. Donald P. Cole of Arlington Village was the guest of honor at a farewell party last evening given by Miss Mary Gayle, at her Arlington Village apartment. Mrs. Gayle will leave tomorrow for Worcester, Mass., to join her husband, who recently joined the staff of Clark University in that city.

Club Manor Estates

It seems that we are behind the times a bit and have slipped up on some neighborhood news. Premier Ferenc Nagy and his family have bought a farm where they plan to make their home while in America. They stayed at the 24th Street South home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coil until recently. Due to the price war on furniture it has been difficult for the ex-premier from Hungary to locate suitable furnishings for his new home. Mrs. Andrew Berding of 2353 South Meade St. has been reupholstering a dining room suite to give the Nagy family this week when they pay her a visit. Everyone wishes them the best of luck in their new surroundings.

Maria Ecker-Racz of South 24th Street is still looking for the lost blue fountain pen. If anyone should find it, please call Maria at Jackson 1867M.

"Senator" George McGill, 2346 South Meade Street, has just returned from a tour of his native state, Kansas, and reports that the wheat country looks dry in spite of a few rains that have finally fallen out that way. However, the crops will probably survive the winter with the help of that much needed rainfall.

Mrs. Prentiss D. Sale, Jr., 2347 South Nash Street, was hostess at a luncheon at Allison's Tea House on Ridge Road last Friday. Her guests of honor were Mrs. Paul O. Reehling of Fairlington and Mrs. Thomas E. Gilbert of North 16th Road. It was a joint birthday celebration for the ladies.

The American Relief for Czechoslovakia, Inc., 1819 Broadway, New York 23, New York is offering Christmas cards for sale made by children in Czechoslovakia who have been handicapped by infantile paralysis. The new card was drawn by Karl Janicek who is at the Jedlicka Institute in Prague. During the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia, facilities for the treatment of paralysis were at a standstill. Even the Institute at Prague was bombed by American bombs. However, we in the United States have been trying to make up for this act by sending aid to the children there. The cards will be mailed to anyone sending the organization a check or money order for $1.50 for a set of 10, plus 5 cents postage. This year's card shows three children dressed as the Three Kings of the Orient going through the snow to a great castle-looking structure which is the summer home of the Institute at Locbovice. Cards of former years may be bought at $1.50 for a set of 20 plus 10 cents per set for mailing. Those children who have been
