Asking Their Aid By The Associated Press State Democratic Chairman Nelson Parker said today that if local Democratic committees refuse to work in behalf of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, "volunteers and independents" will be pressed into service. "Our aim is to have local units in all Virginia cities working for Stevenson," said Parker, who is directing the state Democratic campaign. "If the local Democratic committee refuses to do the job, then we'll have to get volunteers and independents to do the grass roots campaigning." Thus, Parker agreed with Martin Hutchinson, Richmond anti-organization Democratic leader, who yesterday called for independent action where local committees decline to make an all-out effort for the party's presidential nominee. In Danville last week, the city Democratic committee voted "to do nothing in behalf of the Democratic ticket." And in Lynchburg Monday, the city committee voted to give its "enthusiastic and unqualified support" to Sen. Byrd and Sixth District Rep. Clarence Burton, but pointedly refrained from any mention of Stevenson. Parker said he would "be delighted" to work with Hutchinson or "anybody else who's interested in seeing Stevenson enter the White House." Parker was emphatic in his statement that Stevenson groups will be formed in all Virginia cities and many towns. "We're in this thing for keeps," he said, "and we're not going to leave a stone unturned in our organization efforts for Stevenson." He said he has mailed letters to all district chairmen asking their co-operation in furthering the vote drive. Parker said he isn't worried about the mushrooming of Eisenhower organizations in Virginia. "It looks like a lack of coordination to me," he said, referring to the fact there are several groups supporting the Republican nominee. "Wasn't it Stevenson who said the Republicans are a two-headed elephant? Looks like a multipleheaded elephant in Virginia." But the Eisenhower candidacy received a boost in a speech by James S. Easley of Halifax, a former president of both the Virginia Bar Association and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. Speaking to a newly organized "Women for Eisenhower" group in Roanoke, the Halifax attorney said Stevenson, if elected, cannot clean up "the graft and corruption that may be found in government."

Area In 24-Hour Respite From Polio For the first time since early July, Northern Virginia Health Departments today reported no new polio cases in the area over the past 24 hours. Health officials were quick to caution, however, that the one-day respite does not necessarily mark the end of the 1952 polio season. Total of polio victims in the area for this year stands at 122, as against only 32 cases reported at this same date last year.

Fire At Aristo Plant On Columbia Pike Fire destroyed a counter and some clothing last night at the Aristo Cleaning and Shoe Repair Shop, 4809 Columbia Pike. Arlington firemen said the blaze apparently started in the rear of the store, but did not know the cause. James William Fletcher, 22, a volunteer fireman from the Ballston Company, received a slight wrist cut while fighting the blaze.

County Board Candidates Air Rent Control Three candidates for the Arlington County Board addressed the same audience for the first time last night and expressed three different views on the explosive Arlington rent control question. Ivan A. Booker, Non-Partisan; Wesley W. Cooper, Democrat, and George M. Rowzee, Jr., Republican, spoke before about 75 persons at a meeting of the Williamsburg Citizens Association at Yorktown elementary school. Bank official Rowzee was the only speaker who expressed a definite opinion. He said flatly he is opposed to rent control because it is contrary to the American free enterprise system. Booker answered that rent control should not be feared anymore than controls on the banking business. He said, however, that he would favor rent control only if there is a "landlord's market" in Arlington. He said he did not have enough information to determine whether or not there is a "landlord's market." Cooper merely stated he was not sure there is sufficient information on the Arlington housing situation. He said he would reserve voicing his opinion until he has a chance to vote on the question as a board member. The victorious candidate may get a chance to do so. The County Board voted Saturday in favor of rent control, to be imposed by the Office of Rent Stabilization, but Republican member Robert A. Peck, who voted against it, said he will bring the matter up again if the membership of the board changes as the result of a Virginia Supreme Court ruling expected today. The ruling may result in removal from office of the entire NonPartisan board majority, which favors rent control, because its three members took office when they were federal employees. The board membership also will be changed as the result of the November 4 election, since Democrat Alfred E. Frisbie is not seeking re-election. H-Bomb 'Hell' To Let Loose This Fall WASHINGTON UP) — A test of the world's first hydrogen "hell" bomb may be made during the next two months at the United States' remote and carefully guarded nuclear weapons proving ground in mid-Pacific. A joint Atomic Energy Commission - Defense Department announcement says a task force will "conduct tests in the autumn months of this year looking toward development of atomic weapons." The announcement left open the question of the specific type of atomic weapons, but earlier official statements had pointed to progress in developing the hydrogen bomb, which may be a thousand times more powerful than the A-bomb.

Laborer Hurt In Collapse Of Church Roof A 36-year-old Arlington wrecking crew laborer was admitted to Alexandria Hospital today with a fractured left hip suffered in a fall from the roof of an old church building in Alexandria. The man was identified as George Taylor, of 5518 N. Wilson Blvd., an employee of the A.B.C.D. Corporation, of Arlington. Witnesses to the accident said Taylor and two other men were ripping off the roof of the old wood-frame church at the corner of Cameron and N. Alfred Sts. when the supports collapsed and all three fell to the ground. Taylor was taken to the hospital by the Alexandria Rescue Squad ambulance. The other two men were uninjured in the fall. Hilton of Reading, Pa., 1951-52 commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today was named head of the Republican National Committee's veterans division.

Canterbury Risks Ire Of Convention Participates In Intercommunion Controversy BOSTON (INS) The Archbishop of Canterbury risked the ire of the 57th Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church today by recommending the exploration of terms of intercommunion between churches. Most Rev. Geoffrey F. Fisher, Primate of England, in an address before a joint session of the Houses of Bishops and Deputies and the Women's Auxiliary in Boston, declared: "Little can be done in the West by way of 'schemes of reunion' involving the total absorption of two or more churches into one! another." He said, "The more hopeful line j of advance for the present lies in exploring terms of inter-communion between churches which remain distinct and separate.” The Archbishop added: “It is possible to have different acts or degrees of inter-communion between two churches thus: ‘Interconsecration’ where bishops of one church take part in the consecration of another, ‘intercelebration’ with exchange between ministers of the Sacrament, ‘interpredication or preaching’ with exchange between ministers of the Word, or ‘inter-reception of communicants’ or merely ‘interpraying’ in joint services.” The address followed criticism against Bishop Norman B. Nash of Massachusetts for allowing a clergyman of another denomination to assist him in an Episcopal ordination. The Archbishop asked the interest and support of the Protestant Episcopal churches in America foist. Augustine’s College at Canterbury, established as a central college for priest-students from all parts of the world. He told of the growth of the church in Africa and said: “Here then is a whole continent in the throes of social and political upheaval, of racial, cultural and religious rivalries. The Episcopal Church of the United States, the Church of West Africa, the Church of South Africa, the Church of England, the Church of Australia and a possible Church of Central Africa are all involved in this continent of rapid change, pregnant with marvellous hopes or with tragic disaster for its peoples.” The Archbishop said there was need for “combined strategy” and “from time to time a combined survey” of the church and its problems in the Middle East and added: “I might equally refer to Europe or Brazil: or to the help which you give and we give to the church in Japan and the church in India. Alas, that the church in China is for the time to be reached only by our love and prayers.” He said the suggestion that an Anglican Congress be held in the United States in 1954 “was eagerly and gratefully accepted throughout our communion. It is a bold venture; travel is difficult and expensive in these days the holding of such a Congress will inevitably throw a great burden upon you, but we are eagerly looking forward to it.” The criticism of Bishop Nash was contained in a resolution on file with the House of Deputies. The resolution would ban bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States from taking part in inter-denominational ordinations. It added the joint ordination permitted by Bishop Nash was “unprecedented in the traditions of the Episcopal Church.”

Office Of Assessing Endorsed Civic Federation Gives OK For A Separate Agency i A proposal to set up a separate County Department of Real Estate Assessment was endorsed last night by the Arlington County Civic Federation. The question will be voted on in the referendum on November 4. Action was taken by the Federation after benefits of the proposed department were outlined by Mrs. Shirley Wheeler, chairman of the local government committee. Mrs. Wheeler said the department would provide a continuing program of re-assessments in contrast to the present system in which property values are appraised every four years. The 1952 General Assembly authorized a referendum on the new department after the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals ruled unconstitutional a similar department established by the Arlington County Board last year. The Federation took no definite action at this time on a proposal to incorporate Arlington as a city, a matter which is also to be decided by the November 4 referendum. Mrs. Wheeler’s committee urged federation members to “keep an open mind” on this subject until further study of the question has been made. Further discussion of the subject is expected at the next regu-kr meeting Tuesday, October 7. The committee report noted that public discussions so far on the incorporation proposal have revolved largely around how much revenue Arlington would gain or lose as a city. "A state or utter confusion exists as to the financial impact," the report declared. The committee said that many other questions about incorporation remained to be explored. Some of the answers, it said, will be found in the results of the surveys now under way by the county's fiscal advisory affairs committee and the University of Virginia's Bureau of Public Administration. The Federation referred to its school committee for study, two resolutions. One calls for a study of steps needed to set up a merit system for county school teachers the other seeks a detailed report on methods used by local school officials to allocate funds expended in the annual school budget. Several other referrals, including one about low flying planes over certain sections of the County, were made to respective committees. Mrs. Robert W. Cox, president of the federation, said that these matters would be taken up at regular meetings, either in October or before the referendum in November.

Texans Ask Shivers To Work For Ike AMARILLO (fP)—Texas Democrats last night put Adlai Stevenson's name on the general election ballot, but they asked Gov. Allan Shivers to get out and work for Dwight D. Eisenhower. The delegates roared approval of a resolution repudiating the national convention's platform, making it doubly plain the ballot action was no endorsement of Stevenson. The action came after the convention overwhelmingly rejected a plan to make Eisenhower the candidate of the "Texas Democratic Party" and Stevenson the nominee of the "National Democratic Party." Legion Commander Asks Anti-Red Underground OMAHA, Neb. (U.P.)—National American Legion Commander Lewis K. Gough in his first major speech to Legionnaires last night advocated an intensive underground movement throughout the world to push back Communism. Gough said the government should strike for "an international Declaration of Independence."

ALAN Ij. DEAN . . . Loses Court Appeal

JOHN LOCKE GREEN . . . Wins Court Fight

Fate Of 3 County Board Seats Was Hanging In Balance Since Judge McCarthy's May 5 Ruling

The fate of three County Board members to serve in their county seats was hanging in the balance since May 5 when Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy upheld a suit brought by John Locke Green on behalf of six citizens challenging the right of one of the members to his seat since he was a Federal worker. Since the three members are, or were at the time of their election to County office. Federal employees, the ruling was believed applicable to all three. Green's suit, pointed specifically to Alan L. Dean, a Bureau of the Budget officer, charged that Dean held his office in violation of a 1788 Virginia statute, Section 2-27, of the State Code, prohibiting Federal employees from holding State or County office. Dean argued that the section was "special legislation" and therefore unconstitutional, because it applies to a "special class of people." He also maintained that an exception to that section passed by the Virginia General Assembly and exempting Arlington County from the law, was constitutional. Judge McCarthy in his ruling said that he believed the 1788 law barred Government workers from serving on the board. He said also he believed further that the prohibition which had been reenacted several times may have lived out its usefulness, and any amendment to it must be general legislation in order to be constitutional. The exception cited by Dean, the judge said, was unconstitutional because it applied to counties having a population in excess of 300 for every square mile. "There is no reasonable relationship between the density of population (See Fate Of 3. Page 2. Please)"

Comments On Court Ruling In Board Case

The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals decision barring Federal workers from serving on the County Board drew the following comments from key figures in the doings of the decision. Mr. Cox said: "I am, of course, disappointed that I will not be able to finish the term for which the people of Arlington elected me. It has been a privilege to serve them, and I have done my best to, serve them well. I will continue as a citizen and taxpayer to work for good government in Arlington." Dean's statement was as follows: "I am naturally disappointed. I am particularly disturbed by the fact that more than my personal continuance in office is involved. The most unfortunate consequences are that it enabled a group of local irreconcilables in the real estate and building industry to drive from the board, people elected in fair elections, and it deprives voters of their right to elect other | Federal employees to the board. "I hope that the Circuit Court judge who must fill the vacancies will try to preserve the will of the people by appointing persons whose views are known to be similar to those of the disqualified members. I shall always try to serve my country in any manner the laws of Virginia will allow." Dugan said he will not comment until he finds out exactly what is contained in the court opinion. He reiterated a previous statement, however, that he will seek reelection if he must vacate his seat. At present, he is not a Federal employee, but was at the time of his election to the board for the present term. Board Member Robert A. Peck, Republican, not affected by the ruling, declined to comment, and Democratic Board Member Alfred E. Frisbie, whose position is also safe, was out to lunch when reporters attempted to reach him for comment. John Locke Green, who brought the suit against the board, said that the court has made "all the statements necessary."

Expect Ruling On Weston Case Friday

Court decision on the contempt case of Ross Allen Weston, Arlington Unitarian Church pastor, will be announced Friday, the office of the clerk of the Arlington Circuit Court said today. The 33-year-old clergyman was asked to show why he should not be found in contempt, after his May 18 sermon, in which he implied that Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy showed partiality to the "Byrd machine" of Virginia Democratic politics when he ruled on May 6 that Federal employees cannot serve in county and state offices in Virginia. Weston's case, along with the contempt case of County Board Chairman Robert W. Cox, a federal employee, was heard June 20 in the Circuit Court. Special Judge J. Hume Taylor of Norfolk Law and Chancery Court took the Weston case under advisement, but Cox was acquitted by Judge Lyttleton Waddell of Charlottesville, Eighth Circuit Court justice. Judge Waddell ruled that Cox's comment before the Fairlington Civic Association May 21 that McCarthy's ruling was "perfectly ridiculous" was "perfectly appropriate matter for political discussion" and that the board chairman merely was exercising free speech. But Judge Taylor questioned Weston's right to imply that Judge McCarthy's ruling was not "motivated by his desire to do his duty." Former Arlington Treasurer John Locke Green, who filed the suit resulting in Judge McCarthy's ruling, requested the contempt proceedings.

Election To Be Called For Nov. 4 Federal Workers Can't Hold County Office, Is Ruled STAUNTON, Va (JPj)—Virginia's highest court today upheld a 11-year-old Virginia law banning federal employees from holding State or local office. The order ousts Alan L-Dean from the Arlington County Board effective today. The Supreme Court of Appeals in a 36-page opinion amended and affirmed the decision of Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of Arlington County Circuit Court. Judge McCarthy had held that the 1788 law banning federal employees from jobs under the Yir, Judge Walter T. McCarthy said that he would order the seats of all three County Board members vacated immediately and that lie : would order a special election November 4 to fill them. In the Interim, the judge said, the positions will be filled by three persons whom he will appoint. He said the winners in the special election could take office as soon as they are qualified which could be within a few days after the election, under Virginia law- Filing deadline for the special election, would be 10 days in advance of the election. or in this case, October 15 Judge McCarthy said he had not yet made up his mind whom he will appoint. Virginia Constitution was constitutional and that an exception to the law in the case of Arlington County was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court on both of these counts- However, it said the Arlington Court erred in not declaring Dean's office on the board vacant as of January 1, 1952. The lower court's decree was amended to that extent. The high court, also amended the decree to restrain the county treasurer from paying Dean's salary as a member of the Board after today. Two other members of the Arlington County Board were federal employees at the time six citizens brought suit against Dean to have him ousted from the Board. One of them is still a federal employee and today's order likely covers him also.

Joseph R. McCarthy, controversial storm-center of the national presidential campaign, won a smashing primary election victory yesterday which he said endorsed his Communists - in

- government drive. The Republican senator's chief opponent, Len Schmitt, bitterly conceded McCarthy's renomination to a second term with the comment that in time Wisconsin voters "will recall their support of McCarthy ! in this election with shame." The vote was one-sided. Cate re-; turns: McCarthy, 450,079; Schmitt, 181,702. Seven other states also held primary elections yesterday. They were New Hampshire, Vermont, Minnesota, Washington, Arizona, Colorado and Utah. Virtually all incumbents were re-elected. In an unprecedented move, the organized Democratic party of Texas marched into the camp of General Eisenhower. At an Amarillo convention yesterday, cheering Democrat leaders gave Texas Democratic voters the green light to vote for the general and try to swing Texas' 24 electoral votes to Eisenhower in November. The convention, hooting Stevenson, voted to put the Democratic candidate's name on the November ballot, but in a resolution went further and asked Gov. Allan Shivers and other party officials to campaign for Eisenhower. The big news today, however, was the McCarthy sweep in Wisconsin. The jubilant senator called his victory an endorsement of the people "of my campaign to rid the government of subversive forces that would destroy it." Schmitt, the loser, said McCarthy had won the election through "an amazing and fraudulent hoax" perpetrated on the voters who, he said, some day would be ashamed of their support for McCarthy. McCarthy's victory will pit him in November against either Thomas Fairchild or Henry Reuss. Democratic candidates. The outcome of their race was still undecided early today, although Fairchild was leading. Other Wisconsin primary contests saw all incumbent congressmen—eight Republicans and one Democrat — apparently winning renomination. On the gubernatorial front. Gov. ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY Fate Of 3 (Continued from Page 1) tion and the right of Federal employes to serve on the board, "the judge said. Judge McCarthy's ruling created quite a stir among some of Arlington's civic groups and individuals. Robert W. Cox, chairman of the board who may also be affected by the decision since he is an employe also of the Federal Communications Commission, and the Rev. Ross Allen Weston, minister of the Arlington Unitarian Church, were both cited for contempt of court because of their criticism of the judge's decision. The contempt charge against Cox was dropped but Mr. Weston's case is still pending and a decision is expected Friday. Cox was cited for a speech he made before the Fairlington Civic Association on May 21 in which he evvas quoted as saying that it was "perfectly ridiculous that more than half of the county is barred from holding office." Mr. Weston was cited for a sermon he delivered in his church in which he was quoted as saying that "he was forced to the conclusion that Judge McCarthy's decision coincides with the interests of the Byrd organization." Dean appealed his case to the Supreme Court of Appeals in Richmond. In an unprecedented move, the High Court agreed to hear arguments in a case it had not agreed to review. On June 10, arguments were presented. Following the debates, the court postponed any action until its fall term which began yesterday. A Federal court in Alexandria on September 4 ruled that County Board members who are also Federal workers are not serving on the board in violation of any Federal law. The decision overruled a previous decision and dissolved a 20-day restraining order against Cox and Dean prohibiting them from discussing rent control. The suit, also brought by Green j on behalf of three Arlington real j estate firms, charged that Cox and Dean served on the board in violation of a law that Federal employes cannot hold other public office. Judge Albert V. Bryan, in setting aside the restraining order said that the law was not applicable in the case because it dealt only with persons holding more than one Federal job. If the High Court upholds Judge McCarthy's decision against Dean j and further action taken to oust i Cox and the other board members involved, Daniel Dugan, who, al- j though now in private business, j was at the time of election an em- ;ploye of the Department of Labor, what may happen is that the three vacancies would be filled by the judge through appointments. The new appointees would serve until January 1, 1953. Voters would probably elect new board members in th eNovember general election for terms beginning January 1, 1953. However, two other possibilities have been mentioned in the event of a Supreme Court decision banning Federal employes from board seats. The first of these is the calling of a Non-Partisal convention or Town Meeting adn nominating candidates who are not Federal workers. The other is to call for a referendum to adopt a city charter. The charter was approved by the 1946 General Assembly and would allow Government workers, except highranking policy officials, to serve on a city council. Since Judge McCarthy's decision was rendered, a group, the Emergency Conference on Citizenship Rights of Federal Employes, has been working on promoting a special session of the General Assembly to enact a law permitting Government workers to serve in State or County offices. Bootleg Charges Bring $100 Fine, 30-Day Jail Term Harry Oliver, 35, first of 23 Negroes to be tried on bootlegging charges after mass raids by Arlington police August 24, was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail today by Arlington County Court Judge Hugh C. Cregger. Judge Cregger dismissed charges against Oliver of illegal possession of firearms and illegal operation of a juke box. Found in Oliver's home at 3620 South 27th Street on the night of the raid, according to police, were seven bottles of whiskey, and 2 pints of gin, in the kitchen, five cases of beer in a deep freeze, and 40 pints of whiskey and wine in a second floor bedroom, along with a pistol and revolver. Twelve customers were reported sitting around tables in the basement listening to the juke box. The raid was led by Lt. Walter Lynn Smith. Alfred W. Trueax, Oliver's attorney, noted an appeal after to-day's sentencing.

Candidates (Continued from Page 1) made last night were in answer to a question from the audience. In his regular talk, Rowzee attacked the Non-Partisans. "I will be elected to the County Board by the thinking taxpayers of Arlington who are fed up with the slanted opinions and high-tax-ing, slipshod methods of government that the Trumanite NonPartisan Party representatives have unloaded on them," he asserted. Booker reiterated his belief in Non-Partisan local government. It is not necessary for tax dollars to be spent by a political organization extending from the local to the national level, he said. Cooper denied that he has interests contrary to Arlington because he is an employee of the Alexandria City Attorney's Office. He said he is in Alexandria only two hours a day and that that is in addition to his private law practice.
