The Alexandria City Democratic Committee last night pledged itself to "full and unqualified support" of the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket and all other candidates of the party.

Besides the presidential ticket, the committee directed its support specifically to Senator Harry F. Byrd and Edmund B. Campbell, candidate for Representative from the new Tenth Congressional District.

The committee praised the four as men of "the highest ideals, unquestioned integrity, sound governmental philosophy, and proven ability."

The committee also authorized chairman Thomas Moncure to open a campaign headquarters in the city to promote support for the nominees.

The resolution passed by the committee follows:

That whereas the nominees of the Democratic Party for the high offices of President of the United States, Adlai E. Stevenson, for Vice President of the United States, John J. Sparkman, for United States Senator, Harry F. Byrd, and for Congressman from the Tenth Congressional District, Edmund B. Campbell, are all men of the highest ideals, unquestioned integrity, sound governmental philosophy, and proven ability, and are further completely qualified for the offices to which they have been nominated;

And whereas these nominees are deserving of full, active and enthusiastic support of all members of the Democratic Party in this city;

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Democratic Committee of the City of Alexandria, at its meeting held this tenth day of September, 1952, that it pledges itself to full and unqualified support of all of the nominees of the party in the General Election to be held November 4, 1952; that it commends for the favorable consideration of all the voters of this city the outstanding qualifications of the Democratic candidates and urges their support; and that the chairman of this committee is authorized and requested to open suitable headquarters in this city for the purpose of furthering the campaigns of the Democratic nominees.

Arlington Political Leaders Surprised By Special Election Order For Ousted Board Seats

Arlington political leaders were caught by surprise yesterday by Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy's announcement that he would order a special election held November 4, to replace three Arlington County Board members ousted by a Virginia Supreme Court ruling against Federal employees serving on the board.

Though they were not surprised by the Supreme Court decision, they did not expect the special election to be held so soon, since the filing deadline for candidates in the general County Board election November 4 has passed. But Judge McCarthy said that under Virginia law the filing deadline for special election is only 30 days in advance of the election.

Two persons already have announced their candidacies for the unexpired terms to be filled. Hal Flood Hughes, a former candidate for Republican nomination to Congress, said he would seek one of the seats, and Daniel A. Dugan said he would run for his own unexpired term.

Dugan, who was one of the three members ousted from the board, is not at present a Government worker but was when elected to the board.

T. Oscar Smith, who was moderator of the September 3 Town Meeting, said he will request a meeting of the officers of Town Meeting and recommend that another session be held for nomination of Non-Partisan candidates. The entire Non-Partisan majority has been removed from the County Board by the court ruling.

Leonard O. Hilder, chairman of the Arlington Democratic Executive Committee, pointed out that the Arlington Democratic convention in May, in anticipation of the high court's ruling, authorized him to reconvene the meeting to nominate additional candidates. He said he would not do so, however, until "I look over the situation." He said the Democrats will somehow select a candidate for every vacancy.

Robert L. Groom, County GOP chairman, said he would call a meeting of the Republican committee, probably for Monday and the Republican candidates will be selected either by the committee or at a mass meeting.

Actually, there will be four separate County Board elections November 4, according to Commonwealth Attorney William J. Hassan. One will be the election to fill the board seat to be vacated December 31 by Democrat Alfred E. Frisbie. Campaign for this election is already under way by four candidates.

Candidates must file separately for the specific unexpired term which they want to fill as a result of the court ruling. The four-year term of Board Chairman Robert W. Cox expired December 31, 1953; Dugan's, December 31, 1954, and Alan L. Dean's December 31, 1955.

Judge McCarthy said he would declare the three board seats vacated and appoint persons to fill them until after the election, after he has studied the Supreme Court ruling, which upheld a May 5 ruling of his, and decides whom to appoint. The appointees would serve only until a few days after the election, when the returns are certified and the winners in the special election take office. Winner in the race for Frisbie's seat will not begin his four-year term until January 1, 1953.

Hassan and Attorney John Locke Green, who filed the suit resulting in the ousters of the three board members, agreed that the three ousted members were official members until the high court ruling was given, despite the fact that the court declared Dean's seat vacant as of the day he took office, January 1, 1952.

The fact that the court did not order Dean's salary stopped until yesterday, is additional evidence showing that the three ousted members were de facto members until their removal, Hassan stated.

Buddy Philyaw Fund Started At Cross Roads

Paralyzed from the neck down, 16-year-old Buddy Philyaw, 1402 South George Mason Drive, has been in Arlington Hospital ever since July 13, when he seriously injured his spine diving into the Chesapeake Bay near Cedarhurst. During the past two months, Buddy has undergone one unsuccessful operation and requires constant nursing care.

Realizing that medical expenses are draining the resources of his father, Collis Philyaw, machine operator for an Arlington construction company, members of the Bailey's Cross Roads Fire Department and the Women's Auxiliary are sponsoring a "Buddy Fund" to help pay doctors' and hospital bills. These men and women are very fond of the boy who grew up at the Cross Roads, where his father and mother are both members of the Fire Department.

On Thursday, September 18, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., at the Club Nightingale on U. S. 1 below Alexandria, Buddy's well-wishers will dance to swell the "Fund." Firemen and women's auxiliaries from all Northern Virginia are promoting the benefit, resolved to do all they can for a gallant boy who may never walk again. In charge of tickets at the Cross Roads are two members of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Dorothy Clark (JE 4-3045) and Mrs. James Harlow (FA 8269).

And Buddy? His chief regret is that he isn't able to attend classes at Washington & Lee with his classmates from Dolly Madison Junior High. Cheerful, sure that he will get well, he is happiest when he receives cards, notes, or visits from his old school friends, and is eagerly looking forward to the day when he can go back home.

Vote Funds For Fairfax Courthouse

Building Housing Police And Court To Be Demolished

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors in session yesterday voted $43,396 to provide an additional 8,000 square feet of basement in the new courthouse building now under construction.

Acting on the motion of Arthur I. Shaffer, seconded by C.B. Jett, the Board authorized Eugene Simpson and Bro., the Alexandria Construction company that is building the courthouse, to demolish the building currently housing the County Police and the Trial Justice Chambers and to alter the construction plans to provide new quarters for the displaced departments. Earlier plans called for utilization of the walls of the existing structure in the new building.

Supervisor Shaffer pointed out to the Board that the County is spending $1,200,000 for an enlarged courthouse and at the same time is planning to utilize old walls that in his opinion would weaken that portion of the structure.

Earlier plans to move the Police-Trial Justice building to a parking area in the rear of the courthouse property were abandoned when it was reported to the Board that it would be more expensive to move the building than to demolish the building and to provide additional space in the new building.

In other action, the Board indicated it favors the establishment of a county operated dump on a permanent basis.

The county is presently operating a dump on a test basis on the site of the C. B. O'Shaughnessy gravel pit near Bailey's Cross Roads. Final action on the project was deferred until the next meeting to enable county officials to complete arrangements with the property owners.

The Supervisors agreed that Fairfax sorely needs a county-operated dump as garbage and trash is being strewn along county roads because residents do not have a place to dump refuse.

The proposed resolution provides a 20 cent per cubic foot charge for commercial garbage and trash collectors and no charge to individuals.

During the noontime recess, the Board of Supervisors made its annual inspection of the County jail facilities.

To Observe Printing Of New Bible

Mass Meeting At Clarendon Church On September 30

On Tuesday evening, September 30, at 8 o'clock a mass meeting will be held at the Clarendon First Baptist Church to honor the publication of the new revised standard version of the Holy Bible. On the same evening similar meeting will be held in at least 3,000 communities throughout the United States and Canada.

Dr. M. Jackson White, pastor of the Clarendon First Baptist Church, is chairman of the committee planning the Arlington observance. Working with Dr. White are representatives from the Arlington Ministerial Association, the Arlington Council of Churches and the Arlington Y.M.C.A.

The program will include a processional and recessional of the clergy and the choir, reading a portion of the new Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible along with similar readings from the Hebrew, Greek, and Latin languages and from the major English translations; an address by Dr. Albert T. Mollegen of the Virginia Episcopal Seminary of Alexandria on the theme "The Word of Life in Living Language"; presentation of five copies of the new Bible to representative Arlington citizens, and a litany of thanksgiving and dedication.

"The completion of the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible marks an epoch in the religious life of the English-speaking peoples comparable to that marked by the issuance of the King James Version in 1611," stated Dr. White.

"Recognizing the need for a new version, the former International Council of Religious Education, representing 40 major denominations in the U. S. and Canada, authorized a revision and appointed a committee of 32 eminent Bible scholars to study all the past versions as well as all the available manuscripts in order to prepare a revision of the King James and the American Standard Versions that would present the word of God accurately and in good English for twentieth century readers," Dr. White continued.

To accomplish this gigantic task, the Bible scholars, with Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale University Divinity School, have been working since 1930, translating from Hebrew, Greek, Aramaic, Latin and English sources and checking and re-checking each other's work. No charges from the older authorized versions have been made without the approval of two-thirds of the committee.

The New Testament, being the smaller, was completed first and was published in 1946. The Old Testament is scheduled for publication in two volumes, as well as in combination with the New Testament, September 30. The publishers are Thomas Nelson and Sons, New York.

Plan For Election District Division To Be Heard Monday

A public hearing on the proposed division of Falls Church Election District No. One of Fairfax County will be held Monday, September 15, at 10 a.m. in the Fairfax County Circuit Court Chambers.

The order for the hearing was issued by Judge Arthur W. Sinclair, acting on a resolution and petition filed by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors.

It is proposed that the Falls Church Election District No. One will be divided into two new election districts to be known as Jefferson and Fort Buffalo.

Under the proposal submitted by the Board of Supervisors, Jefferson District will be bounded by the Falls Church-Annapondale Rd. (Rt. 649), Lee Blvd. (Rt. 50), Gallows Rd. (Rt. 709), Lee Highway (Rt. 211) from Merrifield to the Falls Church City Limits and along Lee Highway to the point where it intersects with Lee Blvd. and the Falls Church-Annapondale Rd. Fort Buffalo District will embrace the balance of Falls Church No. One bounded by the Falls Church-Annapondale Rd., northwesterly to the Falls Church City Limits, along the corporate line to the Arlington County line and along the county line to its intersection with Wilson Blvd. (Rt. 613) along this road which is also known as Sleepy Hollow Rd. to Holmes Run and along the center line of Holmes Run to Gallows Rd. (now known as Rt. 649).

The order further provides that the voting place for the Jefferson District will be the Westlawn Public School, currently the voting place for Falls Church District No. One, and that a new voting place will be established for the Fort Buffalo District.

In the primary election held July 15, the Falls Church No. One District was the last to close its voting polls due to a rush of voters that continued until well after 9:30 p.m. A total of slightly less than 1200 persons cast their ballots.

3 Board Candidates Express Regret Over High Court Rule

Three of the four candidates for the County Board seat being vacated by Alfred E. Frisbie, Democrat who is not seeking reelection, expressed regret over the ousting of three board members from that office by a Virginia Supreme Court ruling yesterday that federal employees cannot serve on the board.

All four of the candidates for Frisbie's seat were on hand last night, together with two candidates for Congress from the Virginia newly-created 10th District, to address the Columbia Pike Citizens Association at Patrick Henry Elementary School.

One of the four board aspirants, George M. Rowzee, Jr., Republican, and GOP Congressional candidate Joel T. Broyhill refused to comment on the high court ruling.

Wesley W. Cooper, Democratic candidate for the County Board, said the ruling is "unfortunate" for Arlington and announced that he had written to Virginia Governor John S. Battle asking that he request the Virginia General Assembly to consider legislation permitting federal employees to serve in county and state offices in Virginia at a special session soon.

Ivan A. Booker, Non-Partisan board candidate, agreed with Cooper and added that though the decision is final, "it does not mean that the law on which it is based cannot be changed."

"I feel like I am in mourning over these fellows that have lost their jobs," said Jacob Bechtel, Independent Republican board aspirant. "If I'd been elected anytime I ran, maybe you wouldn't have had all this mess."

Rowzee confined his talk to an attack on the Non-Partisans. He quoted from a statement by Non-Partisan Harley M. Williams in the Daily Sun last November in which Williams charged the Arlington School Department is dominated by "educational theorists and crackpot spendthrifts."

Edmund D. Campbell, Democratic candidate for Congress, who was an attorney for the County Board in the Supreme Court case, said he regretted the decision and hoped that legislation will remove "what I consider an inequity in this matter."

He charged that Broyhill's record shows him to be an "arch Republican isolationist."

In his talk, Broyhill charged that administration "bungling" had led to the war in Korea. He said the average American family goes into debt $400 a year to provide bare necessities under the Democratic administration. Pointing to them and the Korean casualties, he asked, "Are they better off," mocking a Democratic slogan.

This is Bechtel's seventh try for the County Board. Rowzee confined his talk to an attack on the Non-Partisans. He quoted from a statement by Non-Partisan Harley M. Williams in the Daily Sun last November in which Williams charged the Arlington School Department is dominated by "educational theorists and crackpot spendthrifts."

Picks Byrne Tillema, Massey

Replaces Dugan, Dean And Cox 'Til After Nov. 4 Vote

Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy today announced the names of three men whom he will appoint to fill temporary County Board vacancies created yesterday by a Virginia Supreme Court ruling against Federal employees serving on the County Board.

The three appointees are Howard R. Massey, 43, former vice chairman of the Arlington Democratic Executive Committee and Washington bank official; M. Rex Byrne, 47, a Democrat, who is in the moving and storage business, in Washington, and John A. Tillema, 65, a professor emeritus of government at George Washington University.

Tillema said he is an independent but that he generally votes Democratic.

All three ousted board members, Chairman Robert W. Cox, Alan L. Dean, and Daniel A. Dugan, are members of the Arlington Non-Partisan political faction.

Judge McCarthy, a Democrat, said he will make the appointment as soon as he receives official notification of yesterday's ruling by the State high court.

Byrne lives at 202 North Highland Street, and has never been a candidate for any political office. Tillema, who lives at 1903 North Howard Street, also has never sought public office, and holds Ph. D. and Master's in Law degrees from the university and also a degree of Doctor of Juridical Science from Harvard.

Massey lives at 4300 North 23rd Street. He is assistant cashier and assistant manager for the DuPont Circle branch of the Riggs National Bank. He was elected vice chairman of the Democratic committee last year, but later resigned.

The three new board members were appointed to serve until the time for three elected board members chosen in the November 4 special election take office. Judge McCarthy said that at the same time he makes the appointments he will order the November 4 special election.

Southern Coal Operators Eye Lewis' Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern coal operators appeared today to be toying with the idea of going along with John L. Lewis' share-the-work plan.

They didn't say yes, and they didn't say no after discussing the plan at a meeting of the Southern Coal Operators Association's directors yesterday.

They instructed their chief negotiator, Joseph E. Moody, to go ahead with bargaining in an effort to reach an agreement with Lewis' United Mine Workers before their contract expires on Sept. 30.

Lewis wants employment more evenly distributed among his 320,000 union members in the soft coal industry.

Some now work as few as two days a week, others as many as five. Lewis has suggested penalty pay of time-and-one-half for a fourth day's work, double time for a fifth day's work.

No Polio In Area For Second Day

For the second straight day, Northern Virginia Health Departments have reported no new cases of polio in the area.

Area count for 1952 remains at 122, as against only 32 cases reported at this date last year.

By communities, Alexandria stands at 26 cases as against only 5 at this time last year; Arlington at 43 as opposed to 12; and Fairfax at 53 compared to 15 on this date in 1951.
