

School Committee Endorses Potter; Howe Is Rebuffed

Activity in Board Race Is Forced, Le Beau Says; Procedure Is Called "Farce"

In a spirited meeting which lasted until after midnight last Thursday, the Citizens' Committee for School Improvement endorsed I. Lee Potter, vice chairman of the Arlington Republican Committee and an announced independent candidate, for the County Board vacancy to be filled in the November General Election. The final ballot was 66 to 4, with I. Herbert Howe receiving the minority vote after he had announced his candidacy if Mr. Potter ran.

The group also heard Jacob Bechtel, another independent candidate, speak. The three will oppose Alfred E. Frisbie, incumbent, who was the Democratic nomination this month. To date the Republicans have put no one in the field, but Francis J. Clair has announced he will run as a "regular Republican."

A motion that the Committee defer endorsing any independent until the general election was returned to the Better Government League August 15 by such candidates was overwhelmingly defeated. The only other dissent came from Mrs. R. D. Ross and from Mrs. Louette Ber-Lee. Mrs. Ross declared there are "any number" of members in the organization who will work for the group's candidate "only" if the selection is "above board." She suggested a nominating conference.

Mrs. Ber-Lee charged the whole meeting was "a farce," since, she said, the endorsement was actually decided far in advance.

Howe Urged to Withdraw

Mr. Howe also urged delay until the Better Government League holds its endorsement meeting August 25 following receipt of questionnaires on B. G. L. objectives. He said the Citizens' Committee still has time to act at its regular meeting the 26th. He announced his resignation as secretary of the B. G. L. as he said it would be suggested to him it would be improper for him, a B. G. L. officer, to run for the County Board when the B. G. L. intended to endorse another candidate. He told of his activity in the Citizens' Committee since its organization in 1946.

Oscar R. LeBeau, organizer of the Citizens' Committee and its first president, who served as chairman of the nominating endorsement committee for last Thursday, urged Mr. Howe, whom he referred to as a "splinter candidate" for the Democrats, to withdraw as he had two years ago in favor of Daniel A. Dugan. He credited Mr. Howe with Mr. Dugan's successful campaign in 1946, and said he hoped Mr. Howe would show the same "bigness of heart now as he had then." Mr. Howe declared "no Democrat has had anything to do with my candidacy."

Dugan States Views

Mr. Dugan, who is now chairman of the County Board, referred to himself as a "Jeffersonian Democrat." He said he believes in "certain amount of States' rights which does not mean secession." The movement for government reform in Arlington, he declared, should not be stopped by "people with selfish interests," and he said that the Citizens' Committee, which he said he believed in, should not be stopped by "people with selfish interests."

Mr. Howe said he regretted there is no provision for a non-partisan election here, and that the method being used at Thursday's meeting was not real selection because the candidate had

Cornerstone Laying Tomorrow Afternoon

A number of unique articles will be placed in the cornerstone of St. Michael's Episcopal Church at special ceremonies tomorrow afternoon, August 14, at 3 o'clock, at North Ivanhoe Street and 11th Road. The Rev. Crawford W. Brown, D. D., cannon precentor of the Washington Cathedral, will give the principal address. Also participating will be officers and members of Kemper Masonic Lodge and the Rev. George C. Weaver, rector.

The box will contain a copy of the Book of Common Prayer, the July issue of The Virginia Churchman, diocesan magazine, a copy of the by-laws of the congregation, a copy of the June 25 issue of the Arlington Sun, a building promotion folder, a scroll bearing the history of the parish, officers of the congregation, the woman's auxiliary, building committee, names of the architect and contractors and the names of contributing members.

Ground for the present building, which is the first unit of a proposed plant, was broken June 14 and the opening service is planned for Christmas this year. At the present time services are held in the Walter Reed School, North McKinley Road and Washington Boulevard.

Three will be selected from contributing members and four from representatives of participating organizations.

Paul Carrier, president, announces there will also be a report from the certified public accountant who audited the books. This is the firm of John H. Verkoouteren and Company of Washington.

Boys to Vie for Prizes on Hill Run

35 Cars Ready to Roll Tomorrow In Arlington Coaster Races

Thirty-five coaster cars are all ready to run tomorrow in Arlington's first Coaster Car Races, with the starting gun to be fired at 9 a. m. in the competition over a 1,000-yard runway on South 23rd Street.

Fifteen of the cars are entered by Arlington boys and the rest by boys living in Fairfax County and the City of Alexandria. County Manager A. T. Lundberg and Police Chief Harry L. Woodard will be on hand for the opening.

First prize will be a fully equipped English racing bicycle, and there will be cash prizes for all heats. Cars have been entered by the Y.M.C.A. here, the Kiwanis and Exchange clubs and the Marine Corps League.

Prizes for both the Coaster Races and the recent Bicycle Rodeo will be presented at a party for the youngsters Tuesday morning, August 17, at 10 o'clock at the Byrd Theater. Chief Woodard, assisted by Sgt. Frank Palmer,

Arlington safety officer, will make the awards and there will be film comedies for amusement of the boys and girls while Connie B. Gay and his Radio Ranchers will also be on hand. A surprise is planned for conclusion of the party, Sgt. Palmer announces.

The contest tomorrow is sponsored jointly by the Arlington Optimist Club, the Arlington Police Safety Division, Arlington Department of Recreation, the Fairfax Police and the Recreation Department of Alexandria.

George Hammond of the American Automobile Association will serve as timekeeper and Ernest Rauth as chief scorekeeper. The Red Cross will make a first aid station.

Judges will include Earl Barnwell, director of the Alexandria Recreation Department; W. A. Richardson, director of the Arlington Department of Recreation, and Sgt. Lowell Shumate of the Fairfax Police.

All Classes Here Begin Sept. 14

Registration for New Pupils
Scheduled for the 7th

Classes will begin for all pupils in Arlington's public schools Tuesday, September 14, and will be in session all that day. It was announced at the meeting of the School Board Tuesday, New pupils will register at all schools beginning at 10 a. m. Tuesday, September 7, and former pupils will register at all schools Monday, September 13.

New pupils are classified as those entering grades one, seven and 10 pupils entering the Arlington schools for the first time; and those who for a change of address or change of area by the school are transferred within the system.

All secondary teachers will attend a meeting at Claude Swanson Junior High School, September 8 and 9 and the theme will be "Improving Instruction Through Co-operative Planning" with Miss Jane Franseth of the U. S. Office of Education as consultant. Presidents of parent-teacher associations in the secondary schools and members of school advisory committees are invited to attend.

On September 10 there will be secondary school faculty meetings in the various schools to work on objectives for the year and work within the classroom.

On September 9 a conference for elementary teachers will be held at the Patrick Henry School when the subject will be "Participatory Planning on the State-wide Study: What Makes a Good Elementary School?"

September 8, 9 and 10 will also be devoted to meeting of faculties with their principals in each school, and plans for these meetings will be developed by the principals in their group meeting September 8.

Tuition rates for non-resident pupils were set at $100 for elementary students and $140 for secondary students. Non-resident pupils may enter the Charles Stewart School as attended there last year. Openings for others are expected at the James Madison and Cherrydale elementary schools, Dolly Madison Junior High School and Hoffman-Boston (Negro) High School. Other cases may be taken direct to the School Board through the school principal for consideration. It was brought to the Board's attention there are several out-of-town pupils attending Washington-Lee High.

BOARD MEETS TOMORROW

The Arlington County Board will hold a regular meeting tomorrow morning, August 14, at 9 o'clock at the Court House.

Board Names Two As Asst. Principals At Washington-Lee

New Jobs Created for Mrs. Bell and Miss Smith; Several Appointments Made

The assignment list for teachers and principals for the forthcoming school term will be found on page 2.

Washington-Lee High School's veteran assistant principal for girls, Mrs. Frances Bell, was replaced with the appointment of Mrs. Helen K. Finlay, a teacher here for two years, at a special meeting of the School Board Tuesday night, while Frank Kavalier, assistant principal for boys, will be succeeded by Byron M. Cochran, also a local teacher.

The announcements confirmed the report first published by The Sun June 18 that shifts in the administrative staff of the local schools were pending. Included in the change of position, as The Sun said at that time, is Miss Gertrude Smith, for many years primary school supervisor, whose transfer to a new job was confirmed Tuesday night.

A fourth administrative change was completed at the meeting when it was announced that Miss Florence Gravatte, elementary supervisor for 26 years, has been assigned as principal at Woodmont School. Miss Gravatte had asked in June that she be returned to a principalship.

Two Jobs Created

Board Chairman Barnard Joy announced Mrs. Bell would become chairman of the department of foreign languages at the high school, a newly created position, at her present salary of $4,500. Mrs. Finlay will receive $3,800 on a 10-month basis as Mrs. Bell's successor.

Miss Smith, primary supervisor since 1924, has been appointed administrative assistant to Superintendent Fletcher Kent, also a new position. Her job will include purchase of texts on requisition of the supervisory staff, distribution and care of text books, distribution of surplus commodities to the school cafeterias, purchase of janitorial supplies and operation of the milk program.

Mr. Kavalier, assistant principal for boys at W-L for three years, has been appointed a teacher of social science at the high school, and to assist in the coaching of football. He will also assist in the business management of the high school athletic program. Mr. Joy said, Mr. Kavalier's successor as assistant principal, Mr. Cochran, has taught social science at W-L for two years, and before that taught in Pennsylvania and in Washington. He holds an M.A. from George Washington University.

Citizens Question Change

Among appointments announced Tuesday night were Miss Kathryn Cook, coming from the University of North Carolina, to head the high school guidance program, and Jennings Ballard, also of North Carolina, as assistant guidance counselor.

As at previous meetings since

Decision on Voting List Due Tomorrow

A decision on whether lists of registered voters shall be made available to the public was reached by the Arlington Electoral Board Wednesday night, Bankhead T. Davies, secretary, said yesterday, and will be submitted immediately to the County Board. It is expected the Board will make the decision public at its meeting tomorrow.

Following a number of requests from individuals and organizations to obtain the lists, the County Board asked the Electoral Board to reach some conclusion since several Board members felt the matter was outside the County Board's jurisdiction.

You Must Write It Yourself, the Law Says Arlington's Voter Application Forms Hit by Virginia Ruling

Arlington election officials were handed a new headache this week, and yesterday it remained to be seen what they would do, if anything, about a ruling issued by State Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, on the basis of an inquiry from Alexandria, in which Mr. Almond said printed application forms for the registration of new voters are a violation of Section 93 of the Virginia election laws.

Arlington and "many sections of the State" (according to Mr. Almond) have been using printed registration application blanks for a long time, instead of requiring prospective voters to fill out their applications entirely in longhand.

But when Commonwealth's Attorney Howard Worth Smith, Jr., of Alexandria, asked if it could be done there, Mr. Almond said it is against the law. The use of printed forms has been urged in Alexandria by the League of Women Voters in the interest of efficiency.

Arlington uses a 9 by 6 inch blank form, punched for binding in permanent files, on which a new voter answers the required questions and signs the oath of eligibility. But Section 93 of the election laws says:

The prospective voter must make application "in his own handwriting, without aid, suggestion, or memorandum, in the presence of the registrar."

Mr. Almond ruled that a printed blank constitutes a "memorandum," or "aid." He did not explain how a voter is supposed to know the questions he must answer, but a registration official in Arlington suggested each applicant might be handed the Virginia Code book, and told to read the law for himself and act accordingly.

(The question may be asked: Would not the law in printed form constitute a "memorandum or aid" to the registrar?—Editor.)

The election law also provides that the registrar must provide pen and ink, or pencil, blank paper, a desk and chair, for the applicant to use.

Registration books in Arlington were re-opened immediately after the primaries and will remain open until October 2, 30 days prior to the General Election. New voters are urged to register now and avoid the last minute rush. The county's central registrar is in Room 115 of the Court House, where the hours are 8:15 to noon and 1 to 5, Monday through Friday.

Mrs. E. Agnew
Chosen Safe Driver

Arlington's safe driver this week was Mrs. Elizabeth H. Agnew, secretary to the Arlington County Board. Her home is at 3116 Columbia Pike.

Mrs. Agnew, who has been driving a car for 30 years, was interviewed Tuesday over station WABL by Sgt. Frank Palmer, safety officer of the Arlington Police Department. She was presented with flowers, theater tickets, a safety check-up at Kirby's Sales and Service, and a courtesy card from Police Chief Harry L. Woodard.

Three Additional Polio Cases Reported

Arlington now has nine cases of poliomyelitis reported this year, with three new ones this week.

Peter Henderson, four years old, of the 4800 block of North 20th Street, and Charles Bowen, 10, of the 800 block of South 19th Street, are in Gallinger Hospital. They were stricken August 5 and 10 respectively.

The last case is Roger Dale Overman, 15 months, of the 2100 block of South Joyce Street, who was stricken August 10 and is at Children's Hospital.

Guid Sponsors Movie and Songfest

The Wesleyan Guild of Mount Olivet Methodist Church, North Glebe Road and 16th Street, will sponsor a benefit evening of song and movies at the church Thursday, August 19, at 7:30 p. m. Children of the primary department will sing and the audience will join in a color film, "The Day of Better Living," will be shown along with a cartoon. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Committee Opens Referendum Fight

Citizens Will Oppose Shift
In School Election

Overwhelming opposition to changing the date for election of members of the Arlington School Board from November to May was voiced by the Citizens' Committee for School Improvement at its special meeting Thursday.

The action was taken shortly before midnight when nearly half of the some 75 persons attending a meeting, called primarily to endorse an independent candidate for the County Board, had left.

John C. MacPherson, School Board member, left a conference of the School Board to tell the group, "If you want to sacrifice all you've worked for, then vote for a special election in May. I believe the proposed referendum has dynamic force for its own sake, in a lot of danger and no good."

Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy Friday signed the order for a referendum to be held in November on a petition filed recently by Mrs. Harrison Mann and Mrs. Ralph Campbell.

Oscar R. LeBeau, organizer and first chairman of the Citizens' Committee, presented the motion by which the group reaffirmed its position taken last January favoring continuation of School Board elections in November. He declared that circulation of the referendum petition by Mrs. Mann, husband of the chairman of the Democratic Committee here, was "the latest devilment" committed by that party.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann were active members of the Citizens' Committee in its fight for a large school construction bond issue, and for abandonment of the old Trustee Electoral Board method of naming School Board members. Mr. Mann resigned from the School Improvement group after it decided early this year to endorse a non-partisan County Board candidate.

Mrs. R. D. Ross asked what had happened to a resolution adopted previously by the executive committee of the school group to circulate the whole membership as to its views on the School Board election date issue. Mr. LeBeau replied that the executive committee had reconsidered the matter and decided to appoint a special committee to study the pros and cons of the question. He said he was giving that special committee's recommendation. Polling the entire membership by mail, he said, would "set an undesirable precedent."

Lawrence Masoner said there had been no change in the original decision of the executive committee to submit the question to all of the members, and his motion to table Mr. LeBeau's motion was lost. Norman Cramer, secretary, declared "the action taken by the executive committee."

Mrs. Ross held that the organization would be open to less criticism if all the members could be reached, instead of taking action with "not one-twentieth of the members present."

Harley Williams said only 20 signatures were required to petition the judge for the referendum. He said the Arlington political "machine" controls 3,500 votes and it would be much easier to use this strength at a special election than in November when more voters normally go to the polls.

Two Are Named To Draft Board

Frank H. Eastman of 6733 Lee Highway and Dr. Louis C. Mitman of 2420 Wilson Boulevard have been appointed to the Arlington School Board, which it is believed will handle the largest number of registrants in the State. A total of 9,907 are expected to file here.

Mr. Eastman said the Board will organize as soon as the third member is named by Governor Tucker and will open quarters at the earliest possible date. Plans call for the employment of two clerks.

Frank L. Ball, Sr., will serve as general appeals agent and medical advisers are Dr. W. C. Welburn and Dr. S. T. Noland.

Court Again Rules For Owner In Suit Over Setback Line

Way Cleared for Murphy
Store Construction, Total
Cost Nearly Quarter Million

The way was cleared this week for construction of a three story and basement building at Wilson Boulevard and Garfield Street to be occupied by the G. C. Murphy Co., with a decision by Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy affirming an earlier finding that the existing building line on the Garfield Street side of the established line not only for the present one-story structure but for any building which replaces it.

Arlington zoning and planning officials had sought to enforce a 36-foot setback from the center of Garfield on the Wilson building, which would have sliced 15 feet off the property for a depth of 150 feet. They had refused to issue a building permit when the owner, Garfield T. Kass of the Kass Realty Co., applied for it during the summer. Mr. Kass attacked the constitutionality of the Zoning Ordinance in a suit heard in April, and at that time Judge McCarthy ruled the ordinance did not provide for side line setbacks.

Appeal Not Probable

Commonwealth's Attorney Denman Rucker probably will not take the case to the Court of Appeals it was indicated yesterday. Judge McCarthy's order, signed last Friday, becomes final August 21.

This week Mr. Kinnier signed for the Planning Division the application for a building permit as ordered by the court, and the permit application is now in the Building Inspector's office for final action.

Mr. Kass told The Sun yesterday he expects to begin work next Tuesday, provided the construction of the Murphy store which is due to be completed in eight months at an estimated cost of $250,000. It will be the largest addition to the retail business of the Clarendon area since Sears Roebuck & Co.

The Kass suit was heard for the second time last month after Planning Engineer C. L. Kinnier failed to sign the building permit application as directed in the court's first order. The county maintained that an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance adopted subsequent to the first suit, and designed to plug the loophole under which the court found for Kass, justified its continued refusal to issue a permit unless the 36-foot setback was followed.

Mr. Kass, through the law firm of William D. Medley and Griffin T. Garnett, Jr., filed a show cause action seeking to have the county officials held in contempt of court for their failure to issue the permit. However, the case was again heard on its merits.

In his second decision Judge McCarthy ruled that the Zoning Ordinance, as amended, establishes the existing building line of the Kass property as one foot inside the property line along Garfield Street, as is now followed, and said that this building line is the setback line on which the owner is entitled to "erect, construct or reconstruct" a building. The court also held that destruction of an existing building preparatory to erection of a new one does not constitute an interruption of occupancy by the owner in the sense which the Zoning Ordinance seeks to impose.

The new building will replace all the one-story stores between Garfield and the A & P market, and will also cover the existing parking bay in front, which was one of about 20 off-street parking areas granted special exemption by an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance adopted last year.

Mrs. Dorothy Lake Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Dorothy O. Lake, who served as fund director of the current drive for Arlington Hospital, has resigned from the staff to accept a position in Washington.

Mrs. Lake was assistant director of the fund drive in 1946 and 1947. The drive for $85,000 for the Arlington Hospital moved a pace forward this week with $35,001.55 reported, or 41 percent of the goal.
