Non-Partisan Election Voted in Alexandria Advisory Referendum

By Mary Lou Werner

Alexandria voters spoke out in favor of non-partisan municipal elections by a 755-vote majority in an advisory referendum yesterday.

The city councilmen have promised to abide by the voters' wishes and non-partisan voting will begin in local elections as soon as a new city charter can be adopted. The vote was 2,712 for and 1,957 against.

The city's only opposed candidate in the general election was Armistead Boothe, member of the House of Delegates who won an easy victory over his Republican opponent, Richard W. Buckingham, by a vote of 3,207 to 1,397. The suffrage amendments to the State constitution lost by a vote of three-to-one.

Total Vote Is Large

The total vote of 4,667 was large for a general election. Returns, however, showed that the poll tax and non-partisan issues were the big drawing cards at the polls. More votes were cast on these two issues than in any contests between candidates.

Mr. Booth said after returns were complete on the non-partisan issue last night that he understood the City Council now would ask him to introduce at the next session of the Legislature a new charter containing provision for non-partisan municipal elections. The charter commission is preparing a new plan of local government and suggested the referendum.

State Senator Andrew W. Clarke, who represents the Alexandria area, said that although he did not favor the non-partisan plan, he would take no steps to block passage of a charter containing such provisions.

"People Have Spoken"

"The people have spoken. So far as I'm concerned they shall have what they want," said Mr. Clarke.

Nathan Paulson, Alexandria Republican leader, said his party was the first group in Alexandria to come out in favor of non-partisan municipal elections. The two-party system which has prevailed in Alexandria always has been top-heavy with Democrats to the extent that Republicans seldom seek office.

Local Democratic incumbents elected without opposition were: Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith, Jr.; Juvenile and Domestic Relations Judge Marion B. West; City Sergeant J. Frank Moriarty; Commissioner of Revenue Charles A. Callahan; Civil and Police Justice James R. Duncan and City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan.

City voters gave a big majority to the Democratic candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General.

ditions under which they were offered. The conservatives in the majority believe in the poll tax principle.

In the contests for State offices returns from 1,443 precincts showed Mr. Battle, had received 147,548, Mr. Johnson, 97,902, and a third candidate, Clark T. Robb, Socialist-Democrat, 4,340.

Collins Re-elected

Li. Gov. L. Preston Collins, Democrat, won re-election with 145,344 votes over E. Thomas McGuire, Republican, 53,547. Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., Democrat, was re-elected over Sidney Moore, Socialist-Democrat, 145,538 to 44,348.

Defeat of the suffrage amendments was a setback for the Democratic Party, however, because leaders of the predominant faction headed by Senator Byrd—and including Mr. Battle and Gov. Tuck—had appealed to the voters for approval of the amendments.

The Democrats also suffered two setbacks in the Washington suburban area but their majority in the State Senate and House of Delegates is maintained.

Non-Partisan Election Backed

In Arlington, Robert W. Cox, Independent, an anti-Democratic organization candidate, defeated Basil De Lashmuth, chairman of the County Board. Mr. De Lashmuth is one of three Democrats on the local governing body while the other two members were elected as Independents. His defeat, therefore, shifts the balance of power to the anti-organization forces.

In Alexandria, voters approved non-partisan elections for city officials, in an advisory referendum. City heads and representatives in the General Assembly agreed to abide by the results of this referendum.

In legislative contests in the suburbs, J. Maynard Magruder and George Damm, Democrats, were returned to the House of Delegates from Arlington. They were opposed by L. Lee Potter, Republican. Edwin W. Lynch, Democrat, won the House seat in Fairfax and Falls Church over Douglas A. Clark, Republican. Delegate Armistead L. Boothe, Democrat, of Alexandria was returned to the House after defeating his Republican opponent, Richard W. Buckingham.

It was something of a paradox that those who joined to defeat the poll tax repealer were mostly the ones who have been anti-poll tax for years. But their opposition wasn't to lifting of the $1.50 poll tax as such: It was to the broad authority the package proposals would have given to the General Assembly as well.

The 12 constitutional changes, among other things, would have permitted the General Assembly to establish the standards for registration for voting by literacy tests and any other requirements.

the appeals for approval of the amendments made by all of the leading politicians and office holders of the State, the voters plainly registered their disapproval of this effort to vest in the legislature control of their rights to suffrage.

"To those of us who opposed this proposal from its inception, the results of the election are naturally gratifying."

Commenting on the proposal for an unrestricted constitutional convention, Mr. Woods said:

ceived 8,150 and 8,302 votes, respectively, over L. Lee Potter, Republican, with 6,850 votes.

Harley Williams, chairman of the Arlington Better Government League, which supported the winning bond candidate, said:

"The support given Mr. Cox is another demonstration of the desire of Arlington's voters that members of our County Board be elected on a non-partisan basis. It is hoped that the Arlington delegation to the General Assembly will introduce and have passed legislation to remove party labels from school and County Board elections.

ignation of former Senator Wagner last summer.

Says Pro Beats Amateur.

"Their precarious control of the Senate," Mr. Brewster said, "depends upon six seats far more doubtful than the one they have retained in New York. A good professional has beaten a good amateur."

He was referring to the fact that Mr. Lehman had been elected Governor of New York several times, whereas Mr. Dulles was engaged in his first campaign for election to any office, having been appointed last July to the Senate by Gov. Dewey.

Americans for Democratic Action, in a statement issued by Charles M. La Follette, national director, acclaimed yesterday's Democratic victories. Mr. La Follette said: "The significance of yesterday's elections lies in the demonstrated vitality of liberalism wherever it was at issue, and the expressed popular desire to get rid of bossism."

He laid particular stress on the Democratic victories in the municipal elections in Philadelphia.

Driscoll Victory Hailed.

Chairman Gabrielson was enthusiastic over the re-election of Gov. Driscoll. The chairman himself is a New Jersey resident. He called the victory a blow at "bossism" and at "Hagueism."

Frank Hague, former Mayor of Jersey City and for years the Democratic boss of the State, supported Mr. Wene. Earlier in the year, Mr. Hague suffered a severe defeat in Jersey City, where his ticket was defeated handily. He announced after yesterday's result he was stepping aside. At 73 years of age, he said, it is impossible to carry on the arduous duties of Democratic leadership. The defeat of his candidate, however, was the real reason he is getting out, politicians say.

In the New Jersey race, returns from 3,714 of 3,718 precincts gave Gov. Driscoll 881,929 votes to 803,945 for Mr. Wene.

O'Dwyer Beats Morris

Democratic glees over the election returns was enhanced by the victory of Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City, who defeated Newbold Morris, Republican-Liberal-Fusion candidate; Representative Marcantonio, American Labor Party, and by victory in several Upstate municipal elections.

In Philadelphia, too, the Democrats won four city offices by 70,000 to 80,000 votes, tossing out Republicans. These offices have been held for years by the GOP.

In Boston, Mayor James M. Curley was thrown out by the voters, who substituted City Clerk John B. Hynes. Mayor Curley had for years been a power in Boston politics and also had served as Governor and as a member of the House. Mr. Hynes served temporarily as Mayor in 1947, while Mayor Curley was serving a five-

Month Term in Jail on Conviction of Mail Fraud

Politicians were quick to comment on the effect which the Lehman and O'Dwyer victories might have on Gov. Dewey's future political prospects. Some held that the Republicans would turn to Gov. Dewey—the man who has twice carried the State for Governor and once for President—next year as their strongest candidate for Governor. Others contended that the defeat of Senator Dulles, Gov. Dewey's own candidate for whom he had campaigned vigorously, took the New York Governor out of the picture, both for 1950 and for the presidential year, 1952.

Little Change in Lineup

The Lehman victory will give the Democrats the old Wagner seat in the Senate when Congress reassembles in January. However, the probabilities are that the political lineup in that body will be just what it was after the 1948 elections—54 Democrats and 42 Republicans.

Deaths and Mr. Wagner's resignation have accounted for several changes. Senator Baldwin, Republican, of Connecticut is resigning, too, and his place will be filled by a Democrat, appointed by Gov. Chester Bowles. However, a Republican will fill the vacancy caused by the death last night of Senator Reed, Republican, of Kansas. Republican Gov. Carlson is certain to appoint a member of his own party. Senator Reed had expected to run for re-election next year.

In the House, the political division will probably be 262 Democrats, 170 Republicans, 1 Democrat-Liberal (Representative Roosevelt) and 1 American-Labor (Representative Marcantonio), and 1 vacancy. Representative Bates of Massachusetts, Republican, recently was killed in an airplane accident. That will be a gain of one seat for the Democrats, due to Mr. Shelley's election in California.

The only gubernatorial race other than New Jersey was in Virginia, where Democratic State Senator John S. Battle, candidate of the Byrd organization, easily defeated the Republican candidate, Walter Johnson. Virginia, however, turned down by a sweeping vote a proposed constitutional amendment to ban a poll tax of $1.50 as a requirement for voting. Texas also turned down a poll tax repealer.

Lehman Runs Behind Judge

Mr. Lehman, the returns show, ran considerably behind a Democratic candidate for the New York Court of Appeals. State Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Frosell, Democrat, defeated Judge Bruce Bromley, who had been appointed by Gov. Dewey, for this office with a margin of 429,000 votes. This indicated that many Democrats failed to support the former Governor in his Senate race. It had been reported that many Democrats would refuse to vote for Mr. Lehman because of his defense of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in her controversy with Cardinal Spellman over Federal aid to education.

The Lehman lead in New York City, however, was what gave him the victory. He had a margin of 84,000 votes there, while Senator Dulles ran 576,000 votes ahead Upstate.

The vote in the mayoralty election in New York City was Mayor O'Dwyer, 1,264,000; Mr. Morris, 956,170, and Mr. Marcantonio, 358,423. Mr. Marcantonio's vote was considerably smaller than he had forecast.

The Democrats captured control of nine upstate New York cities, ousting Republican Mayors in Syracuse, Binghamton, Rome, Cortland, Ithaca, Geneva, Port Jervis and Hudson, and took over the City Council in Schenectady.

Ohio Vote Gives Taft Boost

The Ohio election gave Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican, a considerable lift in his campaign for re-election next year, politicians said today. A proposed constitutional amendment, which would adopt the Massachusetts-type ballot—which compels voters to vote for each candidate and does not allow them to vote a "straight" ticket by one mark—apparently has won a smashing victory—perhaps by 225,000 votes. Returns from 8,513 election districts out of 9,721 show the amendment leading by 862,443 to 661,665.

The CIO made Senator Taft the issue in a fight against the amendment, declaring that it had been put forward to aid in his re-election next year. The Democratic organization was opposed to the amendment, too, and the Republican organization in many parts of the State, lukewarm or hostile. The vote rolled up for the amendment, therefore, is hailed as a personal triumph for Senator Taft, although he took no personal part in the fight.

The CIO suffered another defeat in the mayoralty election in Detroit. There Albert C. Cobo, city treasurer and former executive of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., regarded as a Republican, defeated George Edwards, a member of the United Automobile Workers, CIO, and president of the City Council. Mr. Cobo had the endorsement of the AFL.
