FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 27, 1881.

So far as concerns politics Alexandria rarely fails to do her duty. She did it yesterday in the most efficient and satisfactory manner. Neither the radicals nor the Mahonites entertained a hope of defeating the democrats with a straight party ticket, but they did think that by combining and uniting all the opponents of democracy upon what they called a "temperance" ticket, there was a chance, however small that might be, for them to succeed. The result shows that even their faintest hopes were egregiously disappointed, for their entire force was routed, horse, foot and dragon, and as the motive that inspired them were not worthy, and as the means they adopted were calculated to bring reproach upon a meritorious cause, they have not, and don't deserve, the sympathy of the voters. Many true republicans, white as well as black, voted with the democrats, not because they were opposed to the gentleman who headed the so-called temperance ticket, and who, it is not out of the way to say as good a republican and as worthy a citizen as can be found within the limits of the corporation, but simply and solely to show that they utterly repudiate the bargain made by General Mahone with the republicans in the U. S. Senate, and will resist to the utmost the proposed coalition of the republicans and Mahonites at the fall election. What Alexandria did yesterday, and to see that she did it is only necessary to look at the election returns in another column, is only an earnest of what she will do next November, when she will do her part in the work that will then be accomplished if "limitation" the blight of Mahonism from the politics of Virginia. True Virginia republicans as well as democrats are interested in this work and they will assist each other in effecting it next fall as they did yesterday.

General Mahone and his radical allies are so much opposed to building and to the denial of the rights given to the negro by the constitutional amendments, that, in order to carry out these assumed evils, they would go so far as to repudiate the State debt and cripple the public school by abolishing the capitation tax, but the negro bishop of the Southern conference don't believe in the existence of those evils that are harrowing to the souls of Messrs. Mahone, Frye and some of the other more ultra radicals, and in an address, delivered in New York, last week, said "that any man, white or colored, could live peaceably in the South, provided he attended to his own business; that the white Southern people were contributing liberally, both in land and money, to colored churches, and on questions of education were wholly in accord with their colored brethren." Now, here is testimony from one of the race, to which, according to the Mahone radicals, a free vote and a fair count are denied, and his testimony is reliable, because he speaks from actual and personal experience, and yet there are negroes in Virginia whose own experience is similar to that of the bishop referred to, who allow themselves to be duped into the support of the Mahonites by the promise of an office that will never be fulfilled.

The prospect for the establishment of extensive and varied manufacturing works in this city is assuming more and more the aspect of certainty, and barring unfortunate, and unforeseen accidents, the necessary plans and arrangements will be perfected during the next month, and preparations be made for the commencement of operations, in the way of purchasing, altering and erecting the large number of buildings that will be required. There is no city in the world that possesses greater facilities for such works than Alexandria, and the wonder is that they have not been seen and availed of before. The City Council should go to the extreme limit of its power in granting rights and privileges to the company who propose locating their works here, for should they select Alexandria as the site of their operations the life of the city will be revived at once and a long step be taken immediately toward its future welfare and prosperity.

The Mahonites of Page county declare that they are "loyal to the principles of democracy," and they are so remarkably inconsistent as to endorse General Mahone, who, not only advocates a protective tariff, national banks and all other republican measures, but even goes so far as to give the republicans the control of the committees of the Senate and, to crown all, votes for W. E. Chandler. Surely the Mahonites of Page don't read the newspapers or else have forgotten or never knew what are the principles of democracy to which they profess so much loyalty. Page was once the banner democratic county of the State, and we shall be disappointed if the deception that has been practiced upon her people by Messrs. Mahone and Paul be not required in full at the first favorable opportunity.

The reception the Northern Knights Templar have met with in Virginia possibly may not be as costly, as grand, or as luxurious as that accorded the Virginia Knights during their trip to the North some years ago, but that it is the best that can be afforded, and is given with a warm and generous heart and with a spirit anxious to please, must be an apparent to the visitors as it is to everybody else.

The Supreme Court of New York has granted the order to change the name of the corporation of "Scribner & Co." to "The Century Co."—the order to take effect on the 21st of June. The July issues of Scribner's Monthly and St. Nicholas will have the new corporate imprint.

May 23d, 1881.

We have often said that Mahonism was a blight upon Virginia, and that the sooner it was removed the better for everybody who has any real interest in the State. What stronger proof of the truth of this, our oft repeated assertion, could be offered than the following paragraph taken from yesterday's issue of General Mahone's home organ, the Richmond Whig, and doubtless read and remembered by every one of the Northern Knights Templar then in that city.

"There are many Bourbons of Richmond who engaged in extending courtesies to these visiting New England Knights who would join still more zealously in proscribing, estranging and persecuting them should they take off their uniforms and settle here, without also taking off their New England politics. These purring Bourbon cats would then disclose their teeth and claws! If any Providence or Boston Knight doubts what we say, just let him try it on."

The Whig is a long established newspaper, and had won an enviable reputation before General Mahone became its purchaser. Northerners don't know the change that has taken place in it, and are not disposed to believe that it correctly represents the sentiments of the people of Richmond. Thus believing and reading the paragraph we have quoted, will they be likely to come to Virginia or to send their capital here, or to advise their friends to come or send there? The Whig would not even wait for them to get out of reach of the whip, but gave it to them right full in the face.

Here's the way two readers talk. At a recent meeting of their party in Clarke county, as reported in the Courier, "Mr. A. Moore, who has for some time been identified with the readjuster movement, proclaimed his opposition to the course of Mahone as a Senator, and declared that if they would 'toss Mahone overboard' he (Moore) would be as good a readjuster as any man, to help him God, he was not a traitor!"—meaning, of course, that such was Mahone. Mr. Moore thereupon left the meeting, when the chairman quietly remarked that if they were to pitch Mahone overboard they would throw away all of the readjuster party."

Mr. A. C. Harmon, the candidate for Mayor on the moral ticket, is a gentleman highly respected and esteemed in this community, where he has lived nearly all his life and borne an irreproachable character, and the overwhelming majority against him yesterday was not intended as a personal rebuke, but as an indication of popular sentiment in reference to the issues attempted to be raised by the republicans.

There were about seventeen hundred votes cast in the city yesterday, of which Mr. Beckham, the head of the democratic ticket, received about eleven hundred. A decided indication of popular sentiment and one that will have its weight.

The vote yesterday was not a rebuke to the cause of temperance, nor did it indicate any hostility to that most commendable virtue, but was a decided rebuke to those who would for selfish ends, abuse it by dragging it into the political arena.

Old Fairfax renews her allegiance to the democratic party by about five hundred majority over radicals and readjusters combined. Mahone readjusterism has received its death blow.

The election in this city yesterday resulted in the choice of every democratic nominee, without a single exception, and by majorities that may well make each and all proud of the result.

The result of the elections in the State yesterday will doubtless open the eyes of the Administration at Washington in reference to the strength of the Mahonites in Virginia.

The vote here yesterday cannot be construed into anything but a condemnation of the "blue laws," which it is to be hoped will now be amended or repealed by Council at once.

Many of those who have heretofore acted with the Mahone readjusters yesterday voted the regular democratic ticket. Carry the news to Washington and Richmond!

The Reform Club should repudiate those who would have detracted from its usefulness by making it a political organ to advance the ends of personal ambition.

Had Mr. Harmon run yesterday as a straight ticket republican he would have received, we have no doubt, a larger vote.

And now Col. Hay goes on with his legitimate avocation, having learned a wholesome lesson about dabbling in other people's affairs.

After this there need be no fear of a division in the democratic ranks in Alexandria at least.

The revised New Testament is no doubt a valuable addition to any library, and the typographical arrangement of its pages is regarded by many as an improvement on the old style; but there is a curious reading of the 6th verse of the 31st chapter of 1st Corinthians in one of the medium bound revised editions from the Oxford press. It stands thus: "What then is Apollo? and what is Paul? ministers through whom ye Lord believed; and each as the gave to him." The true reading should probably be: "What then is Apollo? and what is Paul? ministers through whom ye believed; and each as the Lord gave unto him." When such blunders occur in a work ten years in preparation, what more can be expected when an occasional blunder is found in daily newspapers which have but a few hours to read and correct their proofs.

COINS AT AUCTION.—At a sale of old coins in this city yesterday $24.53 was paid for a United States cent of the year 1799. A 1793 cent brought $11.75, and one of 1794 $8.50, while one of 1798 brought but ten cents. It will be understood that these varying prices are due to the relative rarity of the coins of those years. A couple hundred United States and Washington medals bought from 10 cents to $4 each, and a Jewish shekel found a buyer at 30 cents. The concluding sale to day will include a 1790 small eagle dollar which is said to be so scarce that it is not to be found in the United States Mint cabinet.—Phila. Record.

FROM WASHINGTON.
Special Correspondence of the Alex. Gazette.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27, 1881.
Members of the House and Senate of both political parties who have just returned from Albany, where they have been to consult with the members of the New York Legislature about the Senatorial imbrigo, unite in the opinion that the election to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Messrs. Conkling and Platt will not be held this summer, but that a recess of the Legislature will be taken until next fall, and that in the meantime, the republicans of several counties in the State will hold conventions and give expression to their sentiments on the subject, and that both wings of the party say they will agree to the decision of a clearly expressed majority of the party. They will not put off the election until after the adjournment of the Legislature to be elected next fall, for they all concede the probability of a democratic majority in that body, but will postpone it until the republicans voters of the State have had an opportunity to say which side they believe in is the right.

The impression here respecting the result of yesterday's elections in Virginia is that they foreshadow the annihilation of Mahonism next fall. There is no doubt that the Mahonites are at sixes and sevens as regards both the platform and the ticket they shall adopt at their State convention to be held in Richmond next week. Grover is the only one of them who wants to be the candidate for Governor who has any money, and it is thought here that his chances for the nomination are as good as those of any of his competitors. General Mahone is said to be at the Arlington Hotel, but will leave to-morrow or next day for Richmond. Up to date he has received no assurance of support from the Administration, and it is doubtful if he would be able to remain longer. It is reported that when the Alexandrians called upon him yesterday he said to them: "Gentlemen, I don't require the Administration's influence to give you a good lunch, and as its lunch time, I'll be glad if you'll join me." They all joined.

The public charge made to day that Secretary Blaine is implicated in the star route crookedness is emphatically denied by Mr. Blaine, Mr. MacVeagh and Mr. James, all of whom were questioned in reference to it. Mr. Blaine's denial, of course, goes for nothing, and people well posted about such matters say that whether he is directly implicated or not, all the Blaine strikers are, but the denial of Attorney General MacVeagh and Postmaster General James is not enough over so easily.

Secretary Windom has decided, as a measure of precaution and to avoid all danger of trouble about the 5 per cent. bonds which were mailed to him after the date of their convertibility had expired, to return each 5 per cent. bonds to their owners, to be redeemed at the date of the old ones.

A census bulletin to be issued to day gives the total of 300 cities of over 7,500 population as $507,000,000.

General Mahone, for the first time since he has been a Senator, and entitled to pay as such, sent to the office of the Secretary of the Senate to day and drew $1,250, the amount due him to date.

A letter received here to day from Shenandoah county, Va., says that the large barn of Gen. Gilbert S. Meem, and all its valuable contents, among which was much improved agricultural machinery, was destroyed by fire last night before last. A negro servant named Thomas is supposed to be the incendiary. He started for Philadelphia on the night of the fire, but was arrested in Winchester and lodged in jail there. The barn was insured for $1,800, about a fourth of the loss.

Among the clerks in the Census Bureau who have recently left their places are the following from Alexandria: Brock Lewis, Charles Shirley, S. S. Howison, N. Dawson, E. S. Gregory, Miss Carrie Stewart and Miss Mary Shippen. Miss Shippen has since received another appointment in the Pension Bureau.

The agent of the new iron and glass manufacturing company, who will establish their works in Alexandria, provided they can obtain cheap property and obtain privileges in the way of tax exemption there, and the attorney of the company returned from a visit to that city yesterday, and talk as though things are favorable for the establishment of their works there. Should they do so the old city will have a boom that will at once advance her growth and prosperity to a great degree.

In reference to the wreathing of the Stonewall Jackson monument, at Richmond, yesterday, by the Boston Knights Templar, a dispatch says: "This tribute from brave New Englanders to the great Confederate general, courting as it did on 'Memorial Day,' was deeply affecting, and moved some of the spectators to tears. A leading Virginian who was present remarked: 'This will do more to restore complete fraternity among the people of the North and South than all the platitudes that politicians will frame during the present year.'"

The Presbyterian General Assembly South.
At the session of the Presbyterian General Assembly South at Staunton yesterday, Rev. Dr. Richard McIlwaine and J. Leighton Wilson were re-elected secretaries of the board of Home Missions.

Mr. Mulhally presented his protest against the assembly having taken the initiative in sending the message of greeting to the Northern assembly, upon the ground that under grievances received from that church and never atoned for, it is unbecoming in our church to take the initiative in correspondence of this independence of the Southern Church and deprecate any tendency towards the surrender of that independence.

The report on the synodical records of Missouri were approved, with the exception that that synod had decided the benediction was prayer. The committee considered them two distinct ordinances. After some discussion the assembly approved the report.

The reform and retrocession question was further discussed, and changed in by Dr. J. B. Adger and Rev. J. B. Carno, the resolutions of Rev. Mr. Hopkins, opposing the reform measures, were adopted by a vote of 120 to 8. Mr. Martin then gave notice of protest mainly on parliamentary grounds.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPH NEWS.
From Albany.
ALBANY, N. Y., May 27.—The Conklingites are still fighting strenuously for a caucus and declare emphatically that the fate of the party in this State rests upon this action.

The usual resolution for a recess to Monday evening was offered in the Assembly, but at the request of the speaker the vote was laid aside as he said there ought to be some consultation before action.

At 11:30 the resolution was called up again and Mr. Baines suggested that it would be better to adjourn to Tuesday morning.

Speaker Sharpshoof that would require a concurrent resolution and the Senate has already objected to such a resolution.

Mr. Miles moved to amend by adjourning till to-morrow morning.

This was voted down and the resolution to adjourn to Monday evening was adopted. It is understood that the House will then meet and immediately adjourn till next morning.

The latest count shows that of the 103 republicans in the Legislature the Conklingites have 55 and the anti-55, 48. This gives the Conklingites the right to call a caucus or would give them that right if they had 55 signatures to their caucus, but they have not the signatures. They call a caucus, but in the night as do their opponents, owing to the refusal of several members to sign either paper.

Several petitions were presented in the Senate this morning from various towns and counties against the re-election of Conkling and Platt.

Mr. Miles presented a petition of citizens of Oneida county, asking for the re-election of the ex-Senator; also a petition from the same county calling upon the Legislature to sustain the Administration. A remonstrance was presented from business men of New York city against the re-election of Conkling and Platt.

DENVER, Col., May 27.—The morning News says that W. H. Canby, who is sentenced to be hanged at Colorado Springs, June 17th, for the murder, at Buena Vista, last April, of Deputy Marshal Perkins, is a nephew of Ben Butler, and that his right name is Wm. H. Salisbury, of Salisbury, Mass. He was forced to leave home on account of recklessness and went to California; made a fortune in gambling and saloon business, but afterwards lost all. He came to Colorado three years ago. Since the murder his friends have been doing everything to save him. Massachusetts lawyers are here working in his behalf.

Trichine.
NEW YORK, May 27.—Geo. Muller, a clerk in a pork packing house in this city and residing on Park avenue, near Eighth street, Hoboken, was attacked a few days ago with a swelling of the muscles of the arms and legs. He called upon Dr. Kuchel, who found that he was suffering from trichine. A piece of the muscle about an inch square was cut from Muller's arm, and when examined through a microscope was found to contain a number of the parasites. The physician prescribed for the sufferer and he is improving.

The French in Tunis.
LONDON, May 27.—The Times correspondent of the French says: The French consul here has accused, in intemperate terms, and apparently without proof, Mr. Smith, an Englishman, of inciting and assisting the Arabs at Matrouh. The Englishman repudiates the charge. French authority seems to be very thoroughly established in Tunis.

Financial.
NEW YORK, May 27.—The Post's financial article says: At the Stock Exchange U. S. 4 per cents are up to 118½, the highest price yet paid. The 4½s are up to 116½. The 3½s are firm at 104½. State bonds are dull, and down for Tennessee 6½. Railroad bonds are irregular, but generally higher. The stock market during the early part of the day was decidedly weak, and prices fell 3½ per cent, but later the market became stronger, and prices have since advanced 1½. The money market continues very easy at 2½.
